

Mrs. Ted Lewis Here For Dedication Of Museum

The battered old top hat, the clarinet, the awards and other memorabilia of Ted Lewis, one of the world's greatest entertainers, are now on display at the Ted Lewis Museum, 133 W. Main St.

Official dedication ceremonies were held on the platform in front of the museum Sunday and Adah Lewis, the widow of the great showman, cut the ribbon for the official opening.

Yesterday's program included remarks by Mrs. Lewis, selections by the Circleville High School Stage Band, the dedication address by M. E.

Sensenbrenner and a medley of songs by Patti Callif, Columbus, a grandniece of Ted Lewis. Ned Harden was the Master of Ceremonies.

Dr. Jerome Folkman's invocation perhaps best expressed the qualities that made Ted Lewis the great showman that he was during a career that spanned six decades.

"O Lord, gathered before thee this day is a home-town community that has not forgotten a favorite son by whom it was never forgotten.

"Though he travelled from one end of the land to the other and overseas, wherever Ted Lewis went, Circleville, Ohio, went too. This day, Circleville, Ohio testifies that the spirit of Ted Lewis lives in the hearts and minds of all those touched by his love of humanity with all its frailty and its many shortcomings. Ted Lewis made all of us a little braver, a little more confident, a little happier than we would otherwise have been.

"Whoever is at home in his own home town can be at home anywhere in the world. Ted Lewis was.

"Whoever found the people in his own hometown as his friends, would discover friends in the palaces of royalty and in the hovels of the poor. Ted Lewis did. Whoever is proud of modest beginnings can carry adulation and laudation with ease. Ted Lewis could.

"This monument to his memory is dedicated to his spirit. May it abide with us even as with his Creator. May it move us to nobler living even as he was moved by Thee, the God who made him, gave him to us, and, in Thine own time, took him into eternity."

In her remarks Mrs. Lewis recalled the first time she and Ted went to London. As he stepped off the board, he said, "This is a fine city, but it isn't the Capital of the World." Everywhere he went, he told people he was from Circleville, Ohio, the Capital of the World.

Sensenbrenner, the former mayor of Columbus and a native of Circleville, said, "You gotta put something into life to get something out of it. And Ted and Adah did."

Miss Callif, who was accompanied by Stephen Hildenbrand, sang "The Star Spangled Banner," "September Song," "When You're Smiling," and "Baby Face."

Ted Lewis was born Theodore Leopold Friedman on June 6, 1891 in Circleville, the son of Benjamin and Pauline Friedman who operated a department store. Friedman's Bazaar was located on West Main Street, a few doors east of where the museum is located.

He and Adah were married October, 1915, on the stage of a theater in Buffalo, N.Y., and his climb to the top in show business began at about the same time.

Until his death Aug. 25, 1971, she was never far from his side.

The museum was made possible largely through the contributions of Mrs. Lewis, just as his contributions benefitted Ted Lewis Park and Berger Hospital.

The Ted Lewis Museum committee was formed and administers not only the museum, but contributes to the music programs of the four schools in Pickaway County and has established a scholarship to be given in Ted Lewis' honor to students who are continuing studies in the field of music.

Voter Registration Fought By Republicans

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Members of both political parties are now expecting the courts to settle the big skirmish over a newly enacted law that would let Ohioans register and vote the same day.

Majority Democrats, in what nearly resembled a circus atmosphere, stood united last week to pass it over the vetoes of GOP Gov. James A. Rhodes.

There were night riders, a chartered airplane, and some other unusual twists that set the stage for what looms as a Republican attempt to repeal the law in a statewide referendum this fall.

Because Ohio's elected representatives have to adhere to their own laws, or those of their earlier counterparts, a lot of the maneuvering involved legal deadlines.

That's why House Speaker Vernal G. Riffe Jr., D-89 New Boston, dispatched the newly enacted bill and overridden vetoes at night to GOP Secretary of State Ted W. Brown at his home in suburban Columbus, just minutes after the House completed action.

The reason for the rush—similar to a Democratic maneuver in the Senate on May 19—was technical. It is best briefly explained as an attempt to put a wrench into the anticipated move to repeal both instant and permanent registration on the November ballot.

Republicans say they hate the measure, and claim it would invite election fraud, while Democrats assert the GOP is convinced many new voters attracted by the bill would turn to the Democratic Party. There are elements of truth in both assertions.

Riffe wanted the House to act the same day the Senate did—on Tuesday, following Rhodes' holiday weekend vetoes.

It takes a three-fifths majority to overturn the governor, and the speaker had exactly that number (60), or none to spare. Democrats control the House 62-37.

He got on the telephone and ordered the absent members—Reps. Arthur Wilkowski, D-46 Toledo, and Paul R. Leonard, D-37 Dayton—to get to the Statehouse at once, and he didn't care "how they did it."

At the same time, the speaker, who otherwise could have adjourned the House in the afternoon, scheduled a Tuesday night floor session to act on the vetoes.

By that time, Leonard and Wilkowski had arrived. Wilkowski later disclosed that he had to charter a private plane to get to Columbus. It cost him $110, he said.

After the session, Riffe ordered House clerks to formalize the new law and take it to Brown's home. The amiable secretary invited them in and they chatted a while, the speaker said. He added that Brown "gave us a receipt."

Democrats in the Senate had sent the bill to Rhodes on May 19 with the ink barely dry. The House, in speeding it to Brown, wanted to keep the clock running to make law take effect as soon as possible. This was part of their plan to preclude or beat the expected statewide referendum.

From there, the story gets more complicated.

Brown, a leading opponent of instant registration, moved to thwart a Democratic effort to give the bill immediate effect.

In the course of legislative consideration, had Democrats placed a $2.3 million allocation of funds into the measure, making it an appropriations bill. Appropriations measures take immediate effect, and are not subject to the referendum process.

Brown, however, ruled that the bill could be divided. He allowed the appropriation to take immediate effect, but placed on the remainder of the bill a regular 90-day effective date. This action also made the rest of the bill subject to a referendum, he said, in his opinion. "We've done this to bills before," he said. Riffe said "I don't think he had the authority to do that."

While studying possible legal action to force Brown to make the whole bill effective, Riffe and other Democrats adhered to their accelerated timetable "just in case."

If the 90-day effective date stands, the bill would take effect Aug. 30. That's when those seeking the referendum would have to turn over 184,000 valid voter signatures to keep its provisions in abeyance pending a statewide vote in the November election.

Republicans had hoped for some kind of stall on the referendum until next year, to keep Democrats from using the new voting procedure to try to win back the governor's office from Rhodes.

Apparently Democrats, with their legislative speed in starting the clock to run on Rhodes' 10 days to act on the bill, and on the 90 days, if that period is required to lapse before the bill takes effect, won on that point.

Sixty days have to lapse between the time the signatures suspend the newly enacted law, and the time the issue appears on the ballot. The 60 days will run out on Republicans several days before the Nov. 8 election.

Fire Memorial Service Held

SOUTHGATE, Ky. (AP) — A governor, a mayor, a nightclub owner and his faithful employees joined Sunday on a cemetery knoll overlooking the ruins of a nightclub where 161 people perished in a fire.

"I have never in my lifetime been at a place in which my heart has been so broken," recalled Kentucky Gov. Julian Carroll during a memorial service for the victims of the May 28 fire at the Beverly Hills Supper Club.

Carroll, who was at the scene most of the two days following the blaze, talked of the losses suffered by families in many states. Some members of those families braved intermittent showers to gather at the Southgate Cemetery with employees of the once posh supper club, survivors, firemen, police and Salvation Army workers.

Southgate Mayor Ken Paul told them that his small residential city of about 3,500 would never be the same.

"We will never again be able to be an average American city. From now on, the name of Southgate will be linked with smoke and fire and death."

"There is much pain in this city," he concluded. "Now is the period of tears, and we have cried, but we must go on."

Rick Schilling, co-owner of the nightclub located five miles south of Cincinnati, stood on the outskirts of the crowd of several hundred along with several of his longtime employees.

After the service, Schilling broke down and wept with Dottie Eberle, an assistant head hostess. He was led away from the service by the club's chef, Charles Chandler.

For Mrs. Eberle, the memorial service marked a last farewell to the way of life which had been destroyed by the fire.

She was proud that she had been able to save all of her customers who were eating dinner at the club when the fire broke out, but she was also haunted by memories such as having to cover a fellow employee with a tablecloth.

"I've mentally been through hell this week," said the mother of five children.

"We were all like a family at Beverly Hills and then in a matter of hours some of them were gone forever."

Mrs. Eberle said nine of the club's 250 employees died in the fire.

Wheelchair-Bound Skyjacker Nabbed

KUWAIT (AP) — Kuwaiti troops dressed as mechanics overpowered a Lebanese man in a wheelchair who hijacked a Lebanese jetliner with 112 other persons aboard and demanded $1.5 million, airport sources reported.

The 101 other passengers and 11 crew members were unharmed.

The hijacker was identified as Nasser Mohammed Ali Abu Khaled, 28, from the northern Lebanese village of Kubaieh. One of the other passengers said he told them:

"I am a sick man and I am forced to do this. I need the money."

Abu Khaled had been carried aboard the plane in Beirut in his wheelchair. Officials at the Beirut airport said he was not given the usual security search because he was an invalid.

Radio Kuwait said Abu Khaled was being questioned by security officials and by the Lebanese and Iraqi ambassadors.

The airliner, a Boeing 707 operated by Lebanon's Middle East Airways, was nearing the end of a flight from Beirut to Baghdad, Iraq, on Sunday when Abu Khaled wheeled his chair down the aisle, held a small pistol on the pilot and demanded to be flown to Kuwait, passenger Kamel Dawi reported.

After the plane landed in Kuwait, the hijacker made his ransom demand. Officials at the airport began to negotiate with him, and the ambassadors of Lebanon and Iraq joined in. Meanwhile, Kuwait's interior and defense minister, Sheikh Saad el-Abudlla el Sabah, and his security forces made plans to capture the man, a government announcement broadcast by Radio Kuwait said.

After nearly eight hours of negotiations, the Kuwait Information Ministry announced that Abu Khaled had agreed to surrender after being promised safe conduct out of the country. Instead, a group of commandos boarded the plane disguised as air conditioning technicians and grabbed the man with the help of two male stewards.

Dawi said Abu Khaled fired a single shot from his pistol as he was seized, but no one was hit. He was brought down the ramp from the plane in his wheelchair with his hands tied behind his back.

"He was a pathetic figure and we felt we could subdue him, but we waited," said Dawi.

Two Britons were the only Westerners among the passengers.

Ashville Fourth Of July Festival Theme Is Freedom

"Freedom, The American Dream, will be the theme for the 1977 Ashville Fourth of July celebration to be held July 1 thru 4.

This theme is felt to be fitting following our nation's bicentennial celebration of last year. Freedom was certainly a dream of our forefathers who waged a war against England to found this great free America.

Freedom must certainly have been a dream of many Americans throughout our 200 year history who fought and died to preserve our nations freedom, and free many other people of the world from tyranny.

Freedom is still a dream of Americans. We dream of keeping our freedom so that our children, and our children's children, can live in freedom as we have for the past 200 years.

It is with these thoughts in mind that the celebration will commence July 1 at 7 p.m. with the Miss Fourth of July Parade and Pageant.

July 2nd will be childrens' day, with the diaper set being spotlighted at 10 a.m. with the second annual baby contest, and the Little Miss and Mr. Fourth of July Parade and Pageant taking place at 7 p.m.

A community religious service will be held in the park at 9 a.m. July 3.

Activities for July 4 will feature the 11 a.m. Independence Day Parade, and continuous free entertainment through the day. The celebration will end with an aerial fireworks display at 11 p.m.

Concessions and carnival will be in operation daily and an added attraction for this year for those who like the carnival rides will be a $2 per person rate for the hours of 6 to 9 p.m. on July 1 and 1 to 6 p.m. on July 2.

Entry forms for the pageants and parade will appear in the Herald on June 10 and 14.

Congress Studies Major Issues

WASHINGTON (AP) — Revisions of the nation's housing, community development and clean air programs, and easing of restrictions on political activity by federal employees top this week's agenda in Congress.

The Senate, returning from a week-long Memorial Day recess, takes up a 4.8 billion housing and community development authorization bill today. The measure would extend to Sept. 30, 1980, the government's program of block grants to states and localities for community development, with a first-year authorization of $4 billion in spending. It also would revise the formula for distribution of the money to give higher priority to cities with a high percentage of older housing.

The bill also provides for a one-year extension of basic federal housing programs, including a $1.24 billion authorization for housing assistance to lower income families through rent supplements and through public housing. The additional spending would fund an estimated 400,000 new federally assisted housing units.

In recognition of inflation in the cost of homes, mortgage limits for Federal Housing Administration loan insurance would increase from $45,000 to $60,000, and down payment requirements for homes costing more than $25,000 would be reduced from 10 per cent to 5 per cent.

Limits on mortgage loans by federal savings and loan associations for one-family homes would be increased from $55,000 to $60,000.

The Senate later this week is expected to take up legislation revising clean air rules, including a one-year delay in a scheduled tightening of auto exhaust standards.

The exhaust deadline already has been deferred three times. Included in the 1970 clean air act for achieving a 90 per cent reduction in tailpipe pollutants, it now is set for 1978 model cars. Last month, the House adopted an amendment, backed by the auto industry, providing for a two-year further delay and then imposing less stringent standards.

The clean air bill also covers other air pollution sources, generally giving industrial areas more time to meet standards, while offering added protection for areas that now have clean air.

A bill revising the 1939 Hatch Act, which for 39 years has barred partisan political activity by federal employees, comes up in the House on Tuesday.

The bill, similar to one vetoed in 1976 by then-President Gerald Ford, is supported by the Carter administration.

It would permit federal employees to take leave of absence without pay to run for elective office. It would continue prohibitions against solicitation of political contributions or votes on federal property, or using official authority or influence for political purposes.

On Wednesday, the House begins 10 days of work without interruption on major appropriations bills for federal departments and agencies for fiscal 1978, beginning with budgets of the Treasury Department, Transportation Department and the Postal Service.

Boulden Sets Tour With Glee Club

Richard Boulden, the son of Mr. and Mrs. W.E. Boulden, 740 Hawthorne Drive, Circleville, will be one of 45 participants in a three-week singing tour of Poland and the Soviet Union by the Glee Club of the Lawrenceville School, Lawrenceville, N. J., from June 9 to June 30.

The tour, sponsored by Friendship Ambassadors, Inc. of New York City, will take the group to the Soviet cities of Leningrad, Pskov, and Moscow, and to the Polish cities of Warsaw, Crakow, Lublin, and Katowice.

While in Eastern Europe, the Glee Club will perform traditional and contemporary American songs, in addition to a number of Russian and Polish songs.

The Lawrenceville Glee Club will be directed by James Lauffer of the Lawrenceville School Music Department. Five other members of the school faculty will act as chaperones for the tour.

Beer Way Starts On Small Scale

GOLDEN, Colo. (AP) — If Bill Coors can do it, so can Philadelphia's Joe Ortlieb.

Coors, who brews Coors beer in this Rocky Mountain town and markets it in 13 western states, has taken out newspaper ads warning drinkers not to buy Coors from persons selling it in the East because it may have deteriorated on its way across the country.

Ortlieb, the head of a small, 108-year-old family brewery in the City of Brotherly Love, has the same philosophy about his beer.

He ran a newspaper ad here last week, urging Coloradans: "Please don't buy my beer, either."

The ad explained that the beer rarely is shipped outside a 100-mile radius of Philadelphia, although he invited Westerners to sample his product when they get to Philadelphia.

But if a bottle of Ortlieb's shows up in Colorado, he said, "Avoid it like a den of riled-up Rocky Mountain rattlers."

'Annie' Big Winner Of Tony Awards

NEW YORK (AP) — A musical based on a comic strip of another era and portrayals of a gentle poet of another century and a Vietnam War GI of another decade were winners at the 31st annual Tony Awards for excellence on Broadway.

Julie Harris, who portrayed the reclusive poet Emily Dickinson in her limited-run onewoman show "The Belle of Amherst," won her fifth Tony as best actress.

Al Pacino, known best for his movie roles in "Serpico" and "The Godfather," returned to Broadway playing the title role in a Theater Company of Boston revival of "The Basic Training of Pavlo Hummel" and won as best actor in the Vietnam War play.

But "Annie," the musical built around the story of "Little Orphan Annie," was the big winner, taking the Tony in seven of the 19 categories at Sunday night's nationally televised presentation at the Shubert Theater. The string of awards for "Annie" showed why it is already the hottest ticket in town.

Thomas Meehan, in accepting his Tony for best book of a musical, said that when lyricist Martin Charnin phoned him with the idea for a musical based on the comic strip, "I thought it was the worst idea I'd ever heard."

Charnin and composer Charles Strouse picked up Tonys for best score. "Annie" producer Mike Nichols accepted the Tony for best musical. Comedienne-singer Dorothy Loudon, who runs the orphanage, won as best actress in a musical. Peter Gennaro won for his choreography, David Mitchell for his "Annie" scenery.

"Annie" designer Theoni Aldredge tied with Santo Loquasto, who did costumes for "The Cherry Orchard," as best designer.

Barry Bostwick won as best actor in a musical for his title role in "The Robber Bridegroom," a rustic caper which opened in October and closed in February.

"The Shadow Box," a drama about death that recently won the Pulitzer Prize for author Michael Cristofer, was named best play. "Shadow Box" director Gordon Davidson won a Tony. He also accepted a special Tony for the Center Theater Group at the Mark Taper Forum in Los Angeles, which he heads.

Tony nominations were voted on by 486 members of the theatrical profession. The Lawrence Langner Award for lifetime achievement was given to producer Cheryl Crawford. Special Tonys went to the Equity Library Theater, National Theater of the Deaf and three performers who made Broadway debuts this season with one-person shows — comedienne Lily Tomlin and singers Barry Manilow and Diana Ross.

Markets

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market extended Friday's rally with a broad advance today.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials rose more than a point in early trading.

Gainers led losers by close to a 2-1 margin among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

The upswing was set in motion by the news Friday that the rise of the wholesale price index had slowed to 0.4 per cent last month, while the unemployment rate dropped to a 2½-year low of 6.9 per cent.

In addition, New York's Citibank held its prime lending rate at 6½ per cent, although the bank's formula gave it the option of raising the basic charge on blue-chip loans to 7 per cent.

Monroe Auto Equipment picked up ¼ to 1½ in active trading today. The company said an appeals court had turned down the Federal Trade Commission's bid to hold up the acquisition of Monroe by Tenneco.

On Friday the Dow Jones industrial average climbed 9.08 to 912.23, closing out the week with a 13.40-point advance.

Gainers outpaced losers by more than a 5-2 margin on the NYSE.

Big Board volume reached 20.33 million shares, against 18.62 million on Thursday.

The NYSE's composite index rose .48 to 53.36.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index jumped 1.03 to 113.28.

Weekend Collisions Kill 13 In State

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Two double fatalities left Ohio's weekend traffic death count to 13, according to the highway patrol.

An Ottawa couple was killed Sunday in a collision with a train in Putnam County, and two others were killed Saturday in a Cincinnati mishap.

The Highway Patrol keeps its tabulation of weekend traffic fatalities from 6 p.m. Friday through midnight Sunday.

Death Of Pair Said From Fumes

CINCINNATI (AP) — Authorities are awaiting autopsy results to determine the cause of death of a young man and a 15-year-old girl in Colerain Township.

The Hamilton County Sheriff's Patrol says Lance Jessup, 21, and Traci Tarter were found dead Saturday morning, slumped over the front seat of Jessup's car parked in front of the girl's home. The car's engine was running.

Authorities said they suspect carbon monoxide poisoning. Investigating officers say there was no evidence of foul play.

Bath Man Shot While Playing Golf

AKRON (AP) — A Bath man was shot in the leg Saturday while he played golf on the 15th fairway at Fairlawn Country Club in Akron.

The victim was identified as Ott Scarponi, 51, a former president of the country club.

Police say they have no idea who shot Scarponi, but other members of Scarponi's golfing foursome attributed the shooting to a prank by passersby on a nearby road.

A Page Of Opinion

Dismal Beginning

If the young man who made the trip from Boston to Washington a little over a century ago, only to have his first invention rejected by those he showed it to, had been a lesser person and given up his inventive ways, the world might be a vastly different place today. But Thomas Alva Edison was an uncommon man accustomed to a hard life and he was not discouraged.

His first invention, patented in June, 1869, was a device for automatically recording votes by congressmen and senators and tallying them on a board at the head of the chamber. But Congress wasn't ready for such modern trappings, although the device decades later became widely used in legislatures of many states.

Nowhere in recorded history can be found an inventive genius to match Tom Edison. He helped Alexander Graham Bell open up the world of telephone communication by introducing the carbon transmitter. Edison was the father of the phonograph and his later modifications were not far different from those in use today.

His best known and most widely used invention was the incandescent lamp, achieved in 1879 after spending the relatively small amount of $40,000 on experiments.

These — and hundreds of additional patents on file in the U.S. Patent Office — might never have been created had Edison's first disappointing excursion into the world of invention turned his attention from his chosen work. The graduation season is a fitting time to remember that failures, as well as successes, are molders of character.

Man Of The Year

By JIM BISHOP

Eddie Lacey's restaurant was so plush that if it caught fire it would take a million to restore the men's room. The walls were soft suede. The tables were graced with gold lace and small lamps of old flame. The waiters sent their fingers out to be manicured.

A steak at Lacey's wasn't food; it was an event, like the Bicentennial. A deep pile, green rug muffled all sound. The shrimp were pedigreed. The place was between New York's Park and Fifth Avenues, four steps down into grandeur.

Everyone admired Lacey. Except the competition. And all those gauche rich who couldn't get a reservation. He was a tall, gaunt man with windblown wheat on his head. The only thing artificial about Eddie was his smile. He used it instead of words.

It was on now. There was a temporary dais at the end of the big room and Lacey was sitting there with his Ruth. So was the archbishop. Two chairs were empty. The district attorney and his wife were due at eight. It was nine and after, and some of the guests were slopping up the third round of daiquiris.

Every year Lacey sponsored this dinner for the Chamber of Commerce. It selected "The Man of the Year." The proceeds went to the home for unwanted infants. One year Eddie designated Rockefeller to present the award; the next year it was the mayor; another it was the foreign minister of France.

The chamber's choice was in a sealed envelope before Eddie. He wasn't concerned with the mystery. Where, he wondered, was the D.A.? Chuck Doody was one of those relentless prosecutors who is always running for governor next year. They say Chuck would chop his mother if he caught her crossing a street against the lights.

Lacey was still seething when the district attorney arrived in dinner jacket, his wife on his arm. Lacey stood to flag the applause down, but Doody grabbed the mike by the throat and said, "There is no forgiveness for this. I don't tolerate tardiness in my office, but ladies and gentlemen, I assure you that it was a worthy cause."

"I'm sure some of you remember Irish Teddy McManus. Thirty years ago he was as good a welter as there was — except for Mickey Walker. Well, you read the papers. McManus quit the ring, or the ring quit him. He became a thief. For five solid years I've been trying to nail him on the Crawford robbery. We knew he did it. Irish Teddy knew he did it."

"Tonight, the jury took a little longer to convince. Anyway, I'm sorry." He reached for the pristine envelope. "Let us find out who our honored guest is."

Lacey studied his fingers. Very few people knew that Eddie had discovered Irish Teddy a long time ago. The skinny kid had been an amateur in Jersey — "a fury of leather," one boxing writer had called him.

The kid was almost good enough to get to the top. Lacey had his secret manager, cutting himself in for 50 per cent off the top, making McManus pay for his own training.

Almost is a limping word. McManus fought in some of the big ones at Madison Square Garden; he out-pointed McLarnin in twelve. Fighters are like stage beauties. They age overnight and refuse to die.

Lacey had his restaurant, but he wouldn't give a stale roll to Irish Teddy. Softly, persuasively, he touted McManus onto rich couples who were in his restaurant, and who could be robbed at leisure. After a couple of years, the detectives of Manhattan East knew the identity of the Cat Burglar, but couldn't catch him.

The Crawford affair involved an actress. She and her husband were dining at Lacey's when Eddie was told to get into her apartment and go only for jewelry. The following noon he showed up with a diamond ring.

Lacey scratched a mirror with it. "Give you a C," he said. The old fighter looked hurt. "Come on, Eddie," he said. "That's real and I'm broke." Lacey spoke like an indulgent father. "It's hot, Teddy. I'll give you 300 or get the hell out of my place."

Irish took the money. He was too dumb to fence it anywhere else. Eddie Lacey gave it to his wife. "You always wanted a good ring," he said. "This is almost four karats flawless. You get it if you put it in the bank vault for three years. Okay?" She nodded.

The ring disappeared. It required years and good police work to nail Irish, but they had him. Lacey reached over to his wife's hand and turned her ring upside down.

The D.A. opened the envelope. "Well, I'll be —" he shouted. "The Man of the Year is our own Eddie Lacey. It's about time."

NEW YORK (AP) — William Batten, chairman of the New York Stock Exchange, may be correct when he says "I believe there are a great many people out there with investable funds ..."

Yes, they have the funds. Savings and loans are loaded with deposits. The big commercial banks are making greater efforts to share in the lode. And families are sinking money into homes, new and existing, as they never have before.

But they're not investing the money in the stock market. Individual participation is down to roughly 30 per cent of the Big Board's volume. And mutual funds continue to fight high redemptions.

And so, the second half of Batten's statement, made several months ago when he embarked on a program to lure back to the market the prodigal individual investor, has hardly come true as yet. It reads:

"... Who are ready to respond to reasonable incentives to put some of their savings into stocks ..."

Potential investors continue to be savers instead. They search for the guaranteed fixed return provided by interest rather than the riskier but potentially larger return that stocks might provide.

Reasonable incentives? Many solid companies are selling below their book value. The price-earnings ratio of the Dow Jones industrial average is about 9.5 or less, compared with nearly 12 a year ago and 16 to 18 a decade ago.

The incentives are there, but they aren't being exercised.

One mutual fund conducted a survey to determine what was done with the money shareholders obtained by redeeming their holdings. The largest percentage, 24, said they deposited the funds in savings accounts.

Why the conservative attitude? Batten expressed the view that "Many of them simply want some assurance that the government won't penalize them with heavy taxes if they happen to make some money on their investments."

But there is more to it than that. Institutional activity, now accounting for about 70 per cent of dollar volume on the NYSE, most likely has a lot to do with the reluctance to invest in stocks.

Those institutions are felt by individuals to be unfair competition, because of their market-moving power, their special research, their ability to move fast on news the public might not receive until hours later.

Indecisiveness about the economy, of course, is a factor. When savers can see far ahead more of them than now tend to become investors. But they cannot see, and it's all understandable when you read the news these days.

Even business, which has so much to gain from moving ahead, marks time while worrying itself into a lather about the uncertainties of interest rates, taxes, costs, prices, availability of commodities, foreign competition and more.

With business exhibiting such a lack of daring, can the investor be blamed for showing his caution? Without promise, there are no investments, and the equity markets don't seem to be promising much.

By contrast, fixed incomes aren't promises, but guarantees.

"Sure, lots of people get speeding tickets, but not in a carwash."

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

I'm a little past 55. I recently became a widower and my life has been in a turmoil. I feel that I could use the help of a psychologist. Whenever I suggest it to my children they embarrass me by insisting that I'm too old to get started on such a thing. What is your opinion?

Mr. G. R. T., Mass.

Dear Mr. T.:

There is no age in which one cannot derive benefit from some form of psychological guidance. When you confronted the situation and came to the conclusion that you needed some form of psychotherapy, you made a courageous step in the right direction.

Those who are advising you are apparently doing so without the background or knowledge that qualifies them to make such a judgement.

It is true that some psychoanalysts believe that intensive psychoanalysis should be reserved for younger persons. This is probably not what you're seeking.

There are many variations of psychotherapy that might be extremely beneficial and can open horizons of happiness for you. An appraisal of your emotional health, with subsequent guidance, will probably eliminate much of the tension and confusion that now exists.

Many people your age who are overwhelmed by the impact of the loss of a loved one are able to find emotional compensation with the direction and help of competent specialists in the field of psychology or psychiatry.

By all means, follow your own instinct and seek such help after openly discussing your problem with your own doctor. He is in the best position to recommend the person who can help you.

Sometimes, when the smog and pollution are heavy in the city I can barely function. I'm made to feel at the office that I'm acting like a prima donna when I beg my co-workers not to smoke when they're near me. Can you explain for them why this is so uncomfortable for me?

Miss J. E., Calif.

Dear Miss E.:

A great deal of scientific information is now being accumulated about the relationship between high levels of pollution, mental depression and extreme fatigue.

Very recently it was found that large concentrations of hydrogen sulfide, an air pollutant, can cause blurring of the vision, dizziness, mental depression and anxiety.

Add to this the concentration of tobacco smoke and it must be readily understood why you are so uncomfortable and your productivity limited.

Letters To The Editor

EDITOR'S NOTE: While The Herald encourages open comments from its readers, the opinions expressed are not necessarily those of the management. Letters to the editor must be signed and should be of 300 words or less.

Dear Editor:

I would like to take this opportunity to inform the residents of the Amanda-Clearcreek School District of the urgency of need for their support in the June 7 voting for the school levy.

School financing is one of the last areas where citizens can directly have their voice heard in regards to how their tax dollars are spent. Too often, our negative views of other government practices result in a no vote at the polls without realizing that what we are saying is no to our most precious asset — our children and their future to have the opportunity to utilize their potential to the highest through education.

We all are burdened by the cost of inflation and paying rising property tax. The schools are caught in the middle with state mandates, inflation and fixed costs. When have our schools had a raise? The teachers in our district are at the minimum salary that the state allows. It is only through dedication and interest in our children that they remain. This levy will not increase their salaries.

It will just let our children continue their current educational standard. If the levy does not pass schools may be ordered not to open in September or at the latest to close in November. We can face consolidation with a larger district. Our taxes will be raised automatically to that district's level for schools. Costs will go up as our current teachers are paid at the other district's level.

Not only will we pay more, we will lose local control, our children will have missed valuable months of education and our community will lose in pride. I urge your support on June 7. Help the kids and help your self because later you will pay more in many ways.

Dismal Beginning

If the young man who made the trip from Boston to Washington a little over a century ago, only to have his first invention rejected by those he showed it to, had been a lesser person and given up his inventive ways, the world might be a vastly different place today. But Thomas Alva Edison was an uncommon man accustomed to a hard life and he was not discouraged.

His first invention, patented in June, 1869, was a device for automatically recording votes by congressmen and senators and tallying them on a board at the head of the chamber. But Congress wasn't ready for such modern trappings, although the device decades later became widely used in legislatures of many states.

Nowhere in recorded history can be found an inventive genius to match Tom Edison. He helped Alexander Graham Bell open up the world of telephone communication by introducing the carbon transmitter. Ohio Power Loses Bid

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio Power will not get a rehearing in a case in which the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio has ordered a $9.5 million refund to customers for fuel overcharges.

The Canton-based electric utility argued that it had not technically violated the law and that coal costs were passed on to ratepayers in compliance with the fuel adjustment clause.

PUCO said in its April 4 order to the utility that the higher costs were the result of production for other utilities and should not be passed on to regular customers.

The regulatory commission stood by that order Friday by not accepting requests for a rehearing.

Ohio Power also claimed the PUCO lacked authority to order refunds. The exact method of reimbursing customers has yet to be determined by PUCO, but it will probably involve downward adjustments on service bills.

PUCO also denied a rehearing to Atty. Gen. William J. Brown's special litigation section, which said the refund should be $36,000 higher than ordered.

About 20 families in this community on Sapelo Island have that problem, so Mark Leaptrot, a caseworker with the state Department of Human Resources, rents a boat and is met at the dock by residents.

Leaptrot, who is located on the mainland in Darien, Ga., is taken to the Hog Hammock church, which serves as a community center. Then a jeep driver picks up residents who have business with Leaptrot and takes them to the church.

Dear Editor: I would like to take this opportunity to inform the residents of the Amanda-Clearcreek School District of the urgency of need for their support in the June 7 voting for the school levy.

School financing is one of the last areas where citizens can directly have their voice heard in regards to how their tax dollars are spent. Too often, our negative views of other government practices result in a no vote at the polls without realizing that what we are saying is no to our most precious asset — our children and their future to have the opportunity to utilize their potential to the highest through education.

We all are burdened by the cost of inflation and paying rising property tax. The schools are caught in the middle with state mandates, inflation and fixed costs. When have our schools had a raise? The teachers in our district are at the minimum salary that the state allows. It is only through dedication and interest in our children that they remain. This levy will not increase their salaries.

It will just let our children continue their current educational standard. If the levy does not pass schools may be ordered not to open in September or at the latest to close in November. We can face consolidation with a larger district. Our taxes will be raised automatically to that district's level for schools. Costs will go up as our current teachers are paid at the other district's level.

Not only will we pay more, we will lose local control, our children will have missed valuable months of education and our community will lose in pride. I urge your support on June 7. Help the kids and help your self because later you will pay more in many ways.

'Chicago' Remains Top Rock Group

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The life expectancy of most rock groups — even good ones — is about five years. After that they seem to either retire to some Southern California canyon or take work on the bowling alley lounge circuit.

But Chicago, a group whose identifying brassiness once seemed sure to make it a collective timepiece, has endured for more than a decade, and with a surprising amount of vitality.

The eight-man band's last album, "Chicago X," was double platinum, signifying more than 2 million units sold. Only a relative handful of groups ever have a double platinum album. Chicago has nine of them.

Chicago sells out concert halls as consistently now as it did in 1970, when the band was considered the hottest thing since Blood, Sweat & Tears.

Creedence Clearwater Revival, Grand Funk Railroad and Three Dog Night were among the 1970 Chicago contemporaries who have since fallen by the wayside.

With its customary regularity, the group is now at manager James Guercio's Caribou Ranch in Colorado, recording Chicago XI. Before they sequestered themselves in the Rockies, the band members answered a few questions, including: Why hasn't your music gone out of style?

"We just keep workin' at it," says drummer Danny Seraphine. "You try to become what the music scene is. You just try to keep at the forefront of the mainstream of music, you know? You've just got to keep ahead."

"That's our philosophy — look ahead, look ahead. Once you get complacent, it passes you by so fast, you're in trouble."

"There have been some lean moments," Seraphine adds. "But we always seem to pull out and hit another peak. It's a real strange kind of a thing."

"I think anybody hits lean moments," adds singer-trumpeter Lee Loughnane. "It's a matter of riding them out and keeping your confidence."

"Our music is diversified, so it keeps your interest up. We don't get stuck in a rut."

The original members of the group are still there — Seraphine, Loughnane, Robert Lamm (keyboards), Walter Parazider (winds), James Pankow (trombone), Terry Kath (guitar) and Peter Cetera (bass). The only change has been the addition of Brazilian percussionist Laudir De Oliveira.

Success often does funny things to pop music makers, the most common being a sudden desire to leave the mother group and strike it rich solo. Another common cause of musical breakups is personal animosity on the part of two or more members of a group.

But not so with Chicago.

President Turns Up Family Horse Thief

WASHINGTON (AP) — Horse thieves? In the President's family?

Jimmy Carter says so. But he's not saying who they were. Or how many.

His aides say it's a family secret.

Carter was presented Friday with his family tree, traced by the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (Mormon). Genealogies are important to the Mormon religion.

It's no secret that the President's great-great grandfather shot a man. Or that the President's grandfather was shot to death. But the President, maybe as a joke, added a touch of mystery to his roots when he told church officials:

"We've uncovered some embarrassing ancestors in the not-too-distant-past. (There were) some horse thieves and some people killed on Saturday night. One of my relatives, unfortunately, was even in the newspaper business."

If the horse thieves are a joke, the White House press office is going along. It refers questioners to published accounts of violence in Carter's family. But it says the identities of the horse thieves are secrets only the President can reveal.

The church isn't talking.

The Atlanta Journal and Constitution give the following accounts:

Wiley Carter, the President's great-great-grandfather, was acquitted of an 1841 murder charge in Warren County, Ga. He was accused of shooting a man named Usry, whose first name was not recorded, in a dispute over a slave.

Witnesses said Usry accused Carter's wife of infidelity.

The sheriff testified that Carter and Usry raised their guns at the same time.

Wiley's son, Walker, "was killed right after the Civil War in a drunken row with his partner over the proceeds of a flying jenny (a simplified merry-go-round) they owned and operated," according to one researcher interviewed by the Atlanta newspapers.

Will Leaves Money To Nation's Negroes

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — One woman writes that she wants the money to run a karate school. A church official wants the money so he can finish a church building. And a prison inmate says he needs seed money to start his own business.

About 3,000 such letters ask to share the inheritance of Joseph Dorgan, a white farmer from Cumming, near Des Moines, who left his $350,000 estate to "the people of the Negro race."

"Please be advised that I'm looking forward to sharing some of Mr. Dorgan's will," writes the Iowa State Penitentiary inmate, who asked for $25,000.

"My inquiry is to get my share, which I am entitled to under the law. I am looking forward to starting my own business pretty soon, and this will help me get started."

The letters have been coming in to the office of Des Moines attorney William Wimer since the will of the 79-year-old Dorgan was made public after his death in 1973.

Wimer is co-executor of the estate along with the National Bank and Trust Co. He says he has chosen a small committee of local blacks to help him decide how to distribute the nearly $30,000 in interest on the trust that will be available each year. Names of the committee members have not been released.

It is not clear why Dorgan left such a will. The document was contested in court by his lone survivor, niece Marcella Harkin of nearby Norwalk. She settled out of court in March for $35,000, Wimer said.

Wimer says the money likely will go to education projects. Requests for the money are accompanied by details of needs that range from the sublime to the ridiculous.

The secretary of a struggling rural Georgia church asks for money to finish the church building. "We have only poured part of the floor, and we only have $436 left."

A young Detroit man with a degree in analytical chemistry says he has been out of work a year because of cutbacks in federally funded research programs.

A Washington, D.C., woman is quite succinct. "I would like some of the money left in the Joe Dorgan estate to buy a house for my family, and big enough to run a karate school in the basement."

Cooking Is The In Thing

WHOLE WHEAT NUT LOAF

1-3rd cup milk
2 tablespoons packed dark brown sugar
1½ teaspoons salt
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
¾ cup warm water
1 package dry yeast
2¾ to 3¼ cups fine whole wheat flour
½ cup chopped (medium-fine) walnuts

In a small saucepan heat together the milk, sugar, salt and butter until lukewarm; butter may not melt but that's okay. In a large bowl dissolve the yeast in the water; add lukewarm milk mixture and 1½ cups of the flour; with a spoon beat until smooth; stir in enough more flour to make a stiff dough.

Turn out on a smooth surface lightly spread with whole wheat flour; knead in walnuts and continue kneading until smooth and elastic — 10 to 12 minutes; dough may be slightly sticky. Place in a greased bowl; turn to grease top; cover and let rise in a warm draft-free place until double — 1 to 1½ hours.

Punch down. Turn out on lightly floured surface; shape into a loaf; place in a greased 8½ by 4½ by 2½-inch loaf pan. Cover and let rise as previously until double — about 1 hour. Bake in a preheated 400-degree oven about 30 minutes. Turn out on wire rack and cool. Makes 1 loaf.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Sex Without Love A No-No

DEAR ABBY: I never miss your column and believe that more people read Dear Abby than any other part of the paper.

Here is a thorny question I have never known you to comment on:

Love: Are the millions of unmarried, widowed and divorced people supposed to do without it?

We are taught to share everything else, so what is wrong with sharing love with some needy person?

And can you separate love from sex?

DEAR M.R.: Sex for sex's sake means anyone will do. Love is selective. Only a certain somebody can fill a need for love.

The need for sex rarely leads to love, but the need for love usually leads to sex. Promiscuous love? Si! Promiscuous sex? No!

DEAR ABBY: Several years ago, I was depressed for a period of time, and since I considered myself an enlightened person, I went to a private psychiatrist. He assured me that there was nothing seriously wrong, that I didn't need prolonged treatment, and after a few more appointments, he dismissed me. That was the sum total of my "psychiatric treatment."

A year ago, I applied for a position. I was asked, "Have you ever had psychiatric treatment?" Seeing no reason not to tell the truth, I mentioned my experience.

In case you don't know this, there are many government positions (and many private ones) that cannot be held by anyone with a "history" of psychiatric treatment.

Abby, a person can be nuttier than a pecan plantation, but if he's never been to a psychiatrist, he's considered mentally stable.

I'd appreciate your comments.

STABLE BUT LABELED

DEAR LABELED: There are still in existence a number of laws, rules, regulations, traditions and precedents that are unjust, senseless and plain idiotic.

If a single session (or a hundred) with a psychiatrist makes one a "mental case," then all psychoanalysts are "mental cases," because in order to become a psychoanalyst, one must himself be psychoanalyzed.

Steering clear of a psychiatrist's office does not necessarily affirm one's good mental health. The person who boasts that he's never been to a psychiatrist can be a lot sicker than those who have.

CONFIDENTIAL TO EAGER TO SUCCEED: Sorry, but you will never accomplish what you have in mind if you continue to wait until you "find the time." No one ever FOUND time for anything. He made it.

Pope Expresses Fire Sympathy

SOUTHGATE, Ky. (AP) — Pope Paul VI has expressed his condolences and sympathy to the families affected by the fire at the Beverly Hills Supper Club in which at least 161 died.

"The Holy Father is saddened to learn of the great loss of life and immense suffering caused to so many families by the accident in Southgate," the telegram said.

"His Holiness invokes eternal rest in God's loving mercy upon those who have died in strength and consolation for the survivors and bereaved."

If a single session (or a hundred) with a psychiatrist makes one a "mental case," then all psychoanalysts are "mental cases," because in order to become a psychoanalyst, one must himself be psychoanalyzed.

Steering clear of a psychiatrist's office does not necessarily affirm one's good mental health. The person who boasts that he's never been to a psychiatrist can be a lot sicker than those who have.

CONFIDENTIAL TO EAGER TO SUCCEED: Sorry, but you will never accomplish what you have in mind if you continue to wait until you "find the time." No one ever FOUND time for anything. He made it.

Town Fights Continued Drought

SPRINGVILLE, Calif. (AP) — Residents of this Central California town may have to truck in water and use portable toilet facilities by mid-July unless they find other ways to cope with the drought. The situation won't be new to Springville's 1,000 residents.

"We'll probably be out of water before anyone comes to any decisions," said Rodney Esser, the local utility district's vice president.

The town about 150 miles north of Los Angeles was in a similar predicament in 1966. A flood unexpectedly helped pollute the local water supply and water had to be trucked in and portable toilet facilities had to be used. This time the cause is different — drought.

Residents currently are on a voluntary rationing program that restricts outside watering to every other day. Nevertheless, the water they save flows down the Tule river because Springville has no reservoir or holding tanks.

The area's springs usually feed the river, Springville's only source of water, but the springs are as dry as everything else in California this season.

Officials fear the Tule will quit flowing sometime in July because there isn't enough runoff from the slim Sierra snowpack.

Besides trucking in water and arranging for portable toilet facilities, the only other possibility is to dig wells.

Both options have a major flaw — they would cost the water utility a lot of money. The utility district's operations budget totals just over $80,000 annually, and some deep wells dug in the area this year have cost as much or more.

Utility district officials now are trying to decide what course to take. The town has requested $112,000 in federal revenue sharing funds. But it's not clear how much of the money will be available for water-related projects.

5-Mill Levy Sought

By Wayne School

WAYNESVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Voters in the Wayne Local School District in Warren County, where schools were closed three days early last winter because of a lack of funds, will be asked to approve a five-mill additional levy in the June primary.

School Supt. Paul Schwamberger said approval of the levy is "critical. Without the five mills we'll just keep pulling ourselves in deeper and deeper," he said.

Vehicle Inspection Law Studied

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio lawmakers are looking to other states for guidance in weighing the pros and cons of mandating annual motor vehicle inspections.

Two bills are pending to require inspections in Ohio, although the state Department of Highway Safety opposes the concept as costly and unnecessary. The issue has been debated off and on at the Statehouse for at least 10 years.

Feedback from other states has been mixed.

In Wyoming, an annual inspection law was repealed earlier this year after a committee study found a lack of uniformity in inspection procedures, inadequate fees and charges of unneeded repair work ordered by inspectors.

Reform measures were offered by those seeking to save the program, a Wyoming legislative officer wrote the state Highway Safety Department.

"Opponents contended, however, that the program was not worth salvaging inasmuch as it could not be conclusively demonstrated that the inspection program reduced the number of vehicular accidents, or conversely that defective vehicles were in any great measure responsible for those accidents that did occur," the officer wrote.

Arthur Bowers, D-98 Steubenville, chairman of the House Highways and Highway Safety Committee, pointed out that Wyoming, one of the least populated states in the nation, was not comparable to a highly urbanized state like Ohio.

A program in neighboring Pennsylvania, comparable in many ways to Ohio, got a favorable review from a state trooper who helps to administer it.

"We like to pride ourselves in thinking that we have one of the best programs in the country," Cpl. Harris Basore of the Pennsylvania Highway Patrol said.

Basore said Pennsylvania inspected nine million vehicles semi-annually in a system that has proven to be self-supporting.

"We are not without our problems," the trooper conceded.

He said a cache of counterfeit inspection stickers, placed on windshields of automobiles, had recently been confiscated in Philadelphia.

With inspections and repairs made at the same location in the Pennsylvania system, Basore said some unscrupulous inspectors had been known to "load people up with repairs."

The Ohio House bill, currently in subcommittee under the sponsorship of Rep. Francine H. Panehal, D-5 Cleveland, would require Ohio motorists to submit their vehicles to annual inspections and pay a $5 fee.

Bowers is leaning favorably on the measure.

"It's controversial," he said. "I want to see that it gets proper attention. The present system is not good enough."

A similar bill, sponsored by Sen. M. Morris Jackson, D-21 Cleveland, is pending in the Senate Highways and Transportation Committee.

Trash Men Fight Smut

CLEVELAND (AP) — Mayor Ralph Perk didn't say it was a matter of convenience or whether his couriers were appropriately chosen, but he has enlisted the aid of trash collectors in his anti-smut campaign.

Perk said Friday that the city's garbage men will deliver a comprehensive poll to every home, seeking residents' views on pornography.

He said he hopes the poll will establish standards that will meet U.S. Supreme Court guidelines for prosecuting obscenity cases.

Perk said Cleveland is a city "under siege from people with little or no moral standards. We are mounting a full, an all-out offensive against pornography ... We are going to war."

He said results of a preliminary poll taken by college students now are being analyzed by Cleveland State University professors.

The questionnaires being delivered to 300,000 to 400,000 homes are intended "to go directly to the people, using the Supreme Court's guidelines, to get a complete, overall point of view ..."

The Supreme Court "has given each community the right of self-determination to set its own standards," he said. "We are going to establish those standards."

The standard tennis racket is about 27 inches long, about 9 inches wide and weighs from 12 to 16 ounces.

Although Italian navigator John Cabot first sighted Newfoundland in 1497, French explorer Jacques Cartier, who explored the Gulf of St. Lawrence 37 years later, is generally regarded as the founder of Canada.

Americans Drive Slower, But Still Over Limit

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Three years after the 55 mile-per-hour speed limit went into effect across the nation, authorities say Americans are driving more slowly than they used to, but are still going faster than the law allows.

An Associated Press spot check shows the number of traffic tickets has risen sharply since the days before the energy crisis forced the speed cutback.

Officials in most areas say they are enforcing the limit rigorously, but they concede that drivers often can travel up to five or 10 miles an hour faster than the limit without fear of retribution. There have been some attempts — mostly unsuccessful — to ease penalties for drivers who break the speed limit, but don't go faster than 75 miles an hour.

Authorities in some states say they are concerned by figures which show the average speed is inching up.

In North Dakota, for example, Col. Ralph Wood, superintendent of the state highway patrol, said average speeds last year ranged from 57.3 to 59.6 miles an hour. He said monthly surveys for this year show from 60 to 73 per cent of the drivers going faster than 55 miles an hour.

"It's the trend that bothers us," Wood said, noting that the situation was still better than it was in 1972-73 when drivers routinely traveled at 75 miles an hour.

The North Dakota Legislature passed a bill that would have limited fines for speeding between 55 and 65 miles an hour to $5, but it was vetoed by Gov. Arthur A. Link, who said the measure was "an invitation" to break the law.

Georgia officials also reported a trend upward in the average speed, from 58 miles an hour in 1974 to 61 miles an hour last year and 62 miles an hour this year.

A spokesman for the state patrol noted that different courts give different fines and added: "There are some areas where you cannot convict for speed less than 10 over."

He said the motorist is usually safe from a ticket if he or she is driving at 65 miles an hour on an interstate highway in Georgia. "But they're not driving at the speeds they once did. They used to run at 75 or 80. The motoring public is no fool. They know what speed they can drive and get away with."

C. W. Dorman, director of highway safety in South Carolina, said surveys show 51 per cent of the drivers are going over 55 miles an hour. Of these, about one-fourth are going faster than 60. One reason that almost half the drivers are complying with the speed limit may be the threat of tickets: Dorman said arrests the year after the 55 m.p.h. limit went into effect went up 50 per cent; the next year they increased 100 per cent and have remained at that level.

Lt. Patrick J. Monaghan of the Idaho State Police said the state is enforcing the lower speed limit "very heavily." As evidence, he noted that the 55 m.p.h. limit took effect in April 1974. From January through March of that year, he said, 3,758 speeding citations were issued. In the same period this year, there were 12,747 speeding citations.

In Kansas, Col. Allen Rush of the highway patrol, said speeding arrests are well-above pre-1974 levels. He said the number of arrests declined slightly in the first quarter of 1977, but attributed the drop to the severe weather that kept people off the roads.

Studies by the state Department of Transportation show that the average speed of vehicles on Kansas highways went from 63.2 in 1972 to 55.7 in 1974, 56.1 in 1975 and 57.1 in 1976.

"There are a lot of reasons for wanting to see the speed limit observed," said Rush. "First, there's safety. It is saving lots of lives. Secondly, it's the most important means available to government at this time for saving fuel."

South Dakota Highway Patrol Supt. Dennis Eismann said average speeds on highways are stable at about 60 miles an hour. "Most drivers are traveling 55 and 60 and we're not seeing many above that speed," he said. "I think that's contributing to our lower rate of accidents, but it looks like we're never going to get everyone down to 55."

Col. Al Lubker, superintendent of the Missouri Highway Patrol, said motorists are not complying with the limit and added that arrests are up sharply. He said most arrests are of motorists traveling between 65 and 70 miles an hour. Before the 55 m.p.h. limit went into effect, the speed of those arrested ranged from 75 to 80 miles an hour.

Under Missouri law, a driver is not assessed "points" against his license as long as he is not exceeding the previously posted limit, even if he is going over 55. He pays a fine only.

Lubker said the fact that drivers don't risk losing their licenses for speeding as long as they don't go too fast makes them more inclined to speed. "We have many people who are driving 60 and chiseling on the speed limit," he said.

Michigan, meanwhile, is considering a bill which would make driving over 55 to the list of offenses for which a driver gets points. Capt. Paul Ruge, commander of the state police, said compliance with the 55 m.p.h. limit is "excellent." He said the average statewide speed is 57.8 miles an hour. "For the most part, we've eliminated the high-speed driver," Ruge said.

A spokesman for the Illinois State Police said: "It is an overwhelming job trying to keep motorists in the 55 m.p.h. range. The magnitude of the problem is increasing. We have told the federal government it has to do a better job of convincing people of compliance."

In the first quarter of this year, studies showed 84 per cent of the drivers on interstates were going over 55 miles and hour, 35 per cent were going over 60 and 8 per cent were doing more than 65. In the same period last year, 77.8 per cent were going over 55, 32.6 per cent over 60 and 6.8 per cent over 65.

For some motorists, speeding is a sometime thing.

Kentucky State Police Lt. Ernest Bivens said he notices a difference in drivers when he is out in his private car and when he is in a police vehicle.

"It's a kind of lonely feeling to be in my Chevy Nova, having everyone go by and think, 'What's wrong with that nut going only 55?' But people are nice. They don't blow the horns too much though they do get kind of upset."

When Bivens is in uniform, in his blue and white cruiser, "it's the greatest difference in the world. When they pull up aside me, they lose their incentive for going 65."

Fire Hero Seeks Return To Anonymity

CINCINNATI (AP) — Before the Memorial Day weekend the 18-year-old hero of the Beverly Hills Supper Club fire was "just plain ol' Walter Bailey." Now Bailey is trying to get out of the public eye.

Bailey, a busboy who grabbed a microphone to alert a show crowd minutes before the May 28 blaze killed at least 161 persons, fled his Alexandria, Ky., home over the weekend to escape publicity for a week.

His mother said he is relaxing at a private Midwest resort under an assumed name.

Before leaving, Bailey told a reporter he was reluctant to discuss the tragedy.

"I just wish this all would die down," said Bailey, who has been inundated with job offers, financial assistance and adulation.

"He thinks enough has been said about him and not enough about others who saved lives," said his mother, Janie Hogle.

"He can't stand to talk about it anymore. The media doesn't realize he's become ashamed of it," said the widowed mother of five.

Bailey's fast action is credited with saving hundreds of lives by warning and then leading patrons to exits from the Cabaret Room, where more than 900 persons crowded into a theater to see entertainer John Davidson.

Summer Frolics Coming Early

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A 100-foot long strawberry sundae will be among treats to be offered June 11-12 when the city of Troy launches its first annual Strawberry Festival.

It is one of a baker's dozen of things to do around Ohio during the first full week of June.

The calendar says summer doesn't start for a couple of weeks but for most it started Memorial Day weekend. It equates to outdoors, baseball, travel and play, and that's what the Strawberry Festival and other events are all about.

Troy's strawberry festival is an expansion of a farmers market held on the city square last year and an arts and crafts festival that has taken over the downtown area for a June weekend for several years.

The Friendly Ice Cream store will build the super-long sundae. It isn't saying yet how long it should last or what protection will be offered from the summer sun, should it last long enough to melt.

Fulton Farms, a major strawberry producer, will offer a variety of berries to the public. Civic organizations are offering strawberry pies, cakes and other sweets for the occasion.

Elsewhere, Ohioans can attend a Frontier Days celebration at Milford, near Cincinnati; Maumee Valley Frontier Day in Defiance; an international festival at Dayton, a rose show in Mansfield or professional drag racing on a track between Columbus and Newark.

Following is a calendar of events for the weekend of June 4-5 and the week following:

June 4-5 — Frontier Days, Milford; parade, contests, square dancing, art show, canoe races.

June 4-5 — International Festival, Dayton Convention Center; entertainment and cultural displays from 38 countries.

June 4 — Columbus Symphony concert, Adena, near Chillicothe.

June 4 — Italian Village Festival, Columbus; craft displays, entertainment, bicycle race.

June 4 — Nature Hike, Fort Hill State Memorial, Highland County.

June 4-5 — Old Car Club festival, Lancaster; antique car show, flea market, display of antique farm equipment.

June 9-12 — Heisey Glass display, Newark; antique show and sale, educational seminars.

June 9-12 — Spring nationals, Columbus-Newark; professional drag racing.

June 11-12 — Rose Show, Mansfield; horticultural entries displayed at Kingwood Center.

June 11-12 — Strawberry Festival, Troy; the first such festival there.

June 11-19 — Land of Legend festival, Newark; display of lost arts and bike tour.

June 12 — Maumee Valley Frontier

Day, Defiance; display of skills and crafts of 17-19th centuries.

June 12-18 — National Clay Week, Uhrichsville; a festival to honor clay workers that has grown beyond original aims.

Officials OK B&W Takeover By United

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Division of Securities has ruled that United Technologies, Corp., of Hartford, Conn., can buy out Babcock & Wilcox Co., but the delay caused by the securities probe makes the deal more costly.

If United had accomplished its March 30 offer for 12.2 million B&W shares at $42 per share, the deal would have come to $512.4 million.

That was about 25 per cent above the New York Stock Exchange quotations for B&W at the time. But stock of the New York-based firm that makes nuclear and coal-fueled boilers closed at $45.87 Friday.

A spokesman for B&W said the firm had no comment on the decision.

A United spokesman said, "Obviously we are delighted," but had no immediate elaboration.

Securities Commissioner James F. Hurd said Friday the proposal does not violate Ohio law and provides a fair disclosure to B&W stockholders of all information material to a decision.

He said any new offer by United, an aerospace conglomerate, would have to allow 30 days, instead of the original 10, for B&W shareholders to make a decision. He gave United a 15-day withdrawal option recommended by hearing examiner Clark W. Wideman.

Hurd's order contained nothing on the price of B&W stock, in effect agreeing with Wideman's recommendation that a price for any new offer be found in the marketplace.

B&W objected to the takeover and asked a hearing, permitted under Ohio law for firms having substantial interests in the state.

B&W said it has 15,780 employees in Ohio, nearly half of them in a Power Generation Group at Barberton, Canton and Alliance, and a world-wide work force of about 40,000.

Testimony during a 12-day hearing in Columbus in April and May indicated the principal issue was capital to complete B&W's development of a new coal burning system and getting it into production.

Candidates Eyed

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland Mayor Ralph J. Perk is now including a black police captain in the list of candidates for the job of fired Police Chief Lloyd F. Garey.

Perk said this weekend he is considering all 27 police captains for the job. The list previously was limited to inspectors and deputy inspectors.

Garey was fired May 28.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A 100-foot long strawberry sundae will be among treats to be offered June 11-12 when the city of Troy launches its first annual Strawberry Festival.

It is one of a baker's dozen of things to do around Ohio during the first full week of June.

The calendar says summer doesn't start for a couple of weeks but for most it started Memorial Day weekend. It equates to outdoors, baseball, travel and play, and that's what the Strawberry Festival and other events are all about.

Troy's strawberry festival is an expansion of a farmers market held on the city square last year and an arts and crafts festival that has taken over the downtown area for a June weekend for several years.

The Friendly Ice Cream store will build the super-long sundae. It isn't saying yet how long it should last or what protection will be offered from the summer sun, should it last long enough to melt.

Fulton Farms, a major strawberry producer, will offer a variety of berries to the public. Civic organizations are offering strawberry pies, cakes and other sweets for the occasion.

Elsewhere, Ohioans can attend a Frontier Days celebration at Milford, near Cincinnati; Maumee Valley Frontier Day in Defiance; an international festival at Dayton, a rose show in Mansfield or professional drag racing on a track between Columbus and Newark.

Following is a calendar of events for the weekend of June 4-5 and the week following:

June 4-5 — Frontier Days, Milford; parade, contests, square dancing, art show, canoe races.

June 4-5 — International Festival, Dayton Convention Center; entertainment and cultural displays from 38 countries.

June 4 — Columbus Symphony concert, Adena, near Chillicothe.

June 4 — Italian Village Festival, Columbus; craft displays, entertainment, bicycle race.

June 4 — Nature Hike, Fort Hill State Memorial, Highland County.

June 4-5 — Old Car Club festival, Lancaster; antique car show, flea market, display of antique farm equipment.

June 9-12 — Heisey Glass display, Newark; antique show and sale, educational seminars.

June 9-12 — Spring nationals, Columbus-Newark; professional drag racing.

June 11-12 — Rose Show, Mansfield; horticultural entries displayed at Kingwood Center.

June 11-12 — Strawberry Festival, Troy; the first such festival there.

June 11-19 — Land of Legend festival, Newark; display of lost arts and bike tour.

June 12 — Maumee Valley Frontier

Day, Defiance; display of skills and crafts of 17-19th centuries.

June 12-18 — National Clay Week, Uhrichsville; a festival to honor clay workers that has grown beyond original aims.

Officials OK B&W Takeover By United

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Division of Securities has ruled that United Technologies, Corp., of Hartford, Conn., can buy out Babcock & Wilcox Co., but the delay caused by the securities probe makes the deal more costly.

If United had accomplished its March 30 offer for 12.2 million B&W shares at $42 per share, the deal would have come to $512.4 million.

That was about 25 per cent above the New York Stock Exchange quotations for B&W at the time. But stock of the New York-based firm that makes nuclear and coal-fueled boilers closed at $45.87 Friday.

A spokesman for B&W said the firm had no comment on the decision.

A United spokesman said, "Obviously we are delighted," but had no immediate elaboration.

Securities Commissioner James F. Hurd said Friday the proposal does not violate Ohio law and provides a fair disclosure to B&W stockholders of all information material to a decision.

He said any new offer by United, an aerospace conglomerate, would have to allow 20 days, instead of the original 10, for B&W shareholders to make a decision. He gave United a 15-day withdrawal option recommended by hearing examiner Clark W. Wideman.

Hurd's order contained nothing on the price of B&W stock, in effect agreeing with Wideman's recommendation that a price for any new offer be found in the marketplace.

B&W objected to the takeover and asked a hearing, permitted under Ohio law for firms having substantial interests in the state.

B&W said it has 15,780 employees in Ohio, nearly half of them in a Power Generation Group at Barberton, Canton and Alliance, and a world-wide work force of about 40,000.

Testimony during a 12-day hearing in Columbus in April and May indicated the principal issue was capital to complete B&W's development of a new coal burning system and getting it into production.

Candidates Eyed

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland Mayor Ralph J. Perk is now including a black police captain in the list of candidates for the job of fired Police Chief Lloyd F. Garey.

Perk said this weekend he is considering all 27 police captains for the job. The list previously was limited to inspectors and deputy inspectors.

Garey was fired May 28.

Rain Not Enough For Most Farmers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Here is the agriculture weather advisory for Ohio provided by the National Weather Service:

A low pressure system dropped across Lower Michigan into northwest Ohio and moved in off the east coast today. Showers and thundershowers ahead and along this system and its attendant cold fronts were quite numerous and heavy at times.

However, rainfall amounts at reporting stations in Ohio indicated

Too enthusiastic about his new slingshot, 13-year-old Billy fired a pebble at the girl next door. Result: a serious eye injury. The girl's parents decided to seek damages not from Billy but from the shopkeeper who had sold him the slingshot.

"That man is the real villain," they asserted in court. "Under local law it is illegal to sell a deadly weapon to anyone under 17 years of age. Obviously a slingshot can be pretty deadly."

But the court dismissed their claim, refused to define the slingshot as a "deadly weapon." The judge said it was no more dangerous, if properly used, than lots of other ordinary objects.

The definition may be stricter, however, if the defendant has not merely sold the item but has used it himself. For example:

A mugger was arrested on a charge of using a deadly weapon. It seems he had beaten his victim with a steel chain.

Admittedly, a chain in normal circumstances is not a thing of danger. But because of the way the defendant had used it in this case, the court branded it a deadly weapon and found him guilty as charged.

In some situations even an automobile may be classified as a deadly weapon.

In another case a motorist, being sought on a criminal complaint, saw a police car coming toward him with its red light flashing. In fear of capture, he drove head-on into the police car.

Charged later with assault with a deadly weapon, the motorist protested that an automobile did not fit that category. But the court tossed out this defense.

"When an instrument is capable of being used in a deadly manner and it may fairly be inferred that the defendant intended so to use it," said the court, "its character as such a weapon is established."

that the activity was rather widely scattered and highly localized. Neighboring states to the west and northwest did receive generous amounts of the badly needed rain.

Showers and thundershowers were possible earlier today, but by tonight, clearing will have taken place across the state.

Early morning low temperatures Tuesday will drop into the 40s as cooler Canadian air flows in behind the front.

Field Operations — Interruptions in field activities will be localized. Areas with heavier rainfall amounts could see delays of a day or two. Most sections of the state, however, will continue much the same as last week. Cultivation for weed control and side dressing with liquid nitrogen should be the main outdoor field work.

Plant Response — Plant response in the shower areas will be quick and early growth will again become vigorous. Growth in other areas will be limited by the available soil moisture supply. Evaporative rates will be slow due to the influx of cooler Canadian air behind the front. By Tuesday there will be some increases. The cooler temperatures and lower evaporative rate will remove some stress from young plants, but rainfall is still needed, and irrigation is urged where possible.

Haying — By Tuesday, cutting and field drying will become good, and should remain that way for the remainder of the week for all but the northeastern sections of the state. Evaporative rates will be slowly increasing. The percentage of possible sunshine will be large and surface winds will keep a good flow of dry air over fields. Initial cuttings are nearing completion across the state, and the prospects for later cuttings is fair due to the slow regrowth. Warmer than usual temperatures and large insect populations are slowing stubble activation.

Wheat — After today, wheat harvesting conditions will be good through most of the state. Maturity is fast approaching and dry down will be moderate to fast. This will be a good opportunity to get the grain in without losses due to weathering, and a good time to get the second crop in the ground early.

4 IHL Franchises Fight Money Woes

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Four International Hockey League franchises lost a combined $400,000 last season.

Apparently, the Dayton Gems is the only team in serious danger of not returning for the 1977-78 campaign.

Port Huron led the red ink parade. The Flags, a municipally owned franchise, will lose about $140,000 when all the bills are in, the Toledo Blade reported.

The newspaper said Dayton's losses should reach $100,000. Muskegon dropped around $85,000 and Columbus' deficit is in the area of $75,000.

Flint is believed to have lost slightly while Fort Wayne finished $4,300 in the black.

Toledo, Saginaw and Kalamazoo, the Blade reported, were the only big money-makers in the league. Toledo's profit, in excess of $150,000, was probably the largest for last season.

Despite the Flags' loss, the team is almost assured of returning because of 11th-hour maneuverings by John Wismer, a former Port Huron owner and wealthy businessman. Wismer volunteered to solicit $50,000 from the city's businessmen to help cut the loss.

Columbus cut its losses in half by drawing 35,000 more fans. Still, Columbus owner Al Savill and directors of the State Fairgrounds Coliseum have been slow negotiating a new contract.

Muskegon's loss is the worst ever for the team. But there is little question the Mohawks will be back.

Dayton's franchise is in jeopardy. The Gems have lost $350,000 in the last four years and almost didn't make the IHL starting lineup last winter. For the second season in a row, the Gems have closed their offices in the off-season.

The three Dayton franchise owners, Ralph Skilken and Ralph and Harold Wampler, are seeking a buyer for the Gems. Without infusion of fresh money, the club likely will fold.

Records Fall In Girls State Meet

GOOD EFFORT — Circleville's brilliant little red-headed sophomore Juli Schneider rounds the turn in the finals of the State 440 Saturday at OSU. Despite the fact that she was running with a tender foot she turned in a fine race and stayed with the pack.

By BILL McGAFFNEY
Herald Sports Editor
Perri Martin of Teays Valley placed third in the 880-yard run, while Cirleville's Natalie Martin finished sixth in the 440-yard dash and Juli Schneider failed to make the top six in the 440 Saturday in the Girls State Track

Tom Weiskopf Wins Kemper Golf Clash

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Experience was the key to his victory in the Kemper Open Golf Tournament, Tom Weiskopf said. A regained putting touch brought him through the multiple-man scramble.

But wife Jeanne deserves a large part of the credit, too.

"I was really down after my disappointing, discouraging finish in the Memorial Tournament in my home town," Weiskopf said Sunday after a final-round 70 had broken a two-year victory drought.

"I just wanted to get away from tournament golf for a while. I hadn't won in two years. I was playing bad. It wasn't any fun. I was confused and angry. I didn't know what to do.

"I just wanted to get away for a while and not play and try to get things worked out.

"My wife told me I was like a rookie trying to win his first one. She told me I had to stick with it. She said I was the only one who could make it happen, and I couldn't make it happen if I wasn't playing.

"So I went on to Atlanta."

He shot a nine-birdie 65 in the last round at Atlanta and, only after that round, decided to play in the Kemper. That decision — and his critical play on the par-five holes — led to a 277 total, 11 under par, his third victory in the Kemper and $50,000 from the total purse of $250,000.

And it prompted him to enter this week's Danny Thomas-Memphis Classic. He filed his entry moments after posting his 12th career victory and only moments before the deadline.

Weiskopf had to birdie the par-five ninth hole to remain in a tie with non-winners George Burns and Bill Rogers halfway through the final round. He took sole control with another birdie on the par-five 10th and locked it up with a one-putt par on the par-five 15th, where Burns made bogey from a fairway bunker. That put Tom three in front with three to play.

Scott Pontius Leads Cardinals With Big Bat

Scott Pontius, former standout Logan Elm baseball player, has just completed a highly successful sophomore season with the Otterbein College Cardinals.

Pontius was a starter for the Cardinals and the versatile young man was used as a shortstop and right fielder.

He compiled an overall .300 plus batting average for the season and carried a .275 mark against NCAA schools.

Scott carried the heavy lumber for Otterbein as he led the team in extra base hits, homeruns, triples and set a Cardinal RBI record.

Twice during the season he was awarded the most valuable player cup, once for his performance during the southern swing and again for his fine work during the last two weeks of the season.

Scott is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Vic Pontius, 6970 Ludwig Dresbach Road.

BUNCHED AT THE TAPE — Circleville's Natalie Martin (third from left) drives for the tape in the finish of the State 440-yard run Saturday and gets sixth place. It was a blistering pace as Natalie ran the race in 59.8 which wins some meets.

Finals at Ohio State Stadium.

All three local girls gave a good account of themselves but the runners were blazing and records were falling like leaves on a windy day in October.

Twenty-nine state records were broken during the meet and three tied as the girls set a torrid pace on a beautiful day before a nice crowd.

Perri Martin ran a great race with a time of 2:19.5 to break the record 2:21.6 and finish third which shows the pace of the events.

Darcy Tomlinson of Sherwood Fairview won the event with a record breaking time of 2:18.2. She also broke the mile record with a time of 5:07.8, the old mark was 5:23.1.

Natalie Martin turned in a time of 59.8, good enough to win some meets, and ended up in sixth place in a close bunch at the wire.

Juli Schneider was running with a tender foot but gave it all she had. The little red-head went all out and finished the race in fine style but just couldn't break into the top six as Karen Bradley set a blistering winning time of 58.9.

All three girls did a good job. Perri has graduated but Natalie, a junior, and Juli, a sophomore, are sure bets to be back in the huge arena next year.

Toledo Rogers won the Class AAA team title, Dayton Jefferson copped the AA and Minster took the A honors.

ALMOST HOME — Perri Martin of Teays Valley nears the finish line in the State 880-yard run Saturday at OSU. Perri broke the record with a time of 2:19.5 but finished third in the event. It was a record breaking day with 29 new marks in the book.

Clem Named All-League

Westfall's Dave Clem gained an outfield position on the All-Scioto Valley Conference baseball team while teammates Rick Stillings and Randy Adams received honorable mention.

Dave had been named Westfall's most valuable player earlier. He led the Mustangs with a .390 batting average.

Zane Trace placed three players on the star-studded squad: Don Mallow, catcher, .395 batting average and the Pioneers most valuable player; Greg Ireton, first baseman, .357 average; Terry French, utility man, .372 average.

Brian Kerns, Eric Haynes and Larry Street of the Pioneers all were honorable mention.

Scott Dailey of Unioto was named the conference's most valuable player. A coach of the year was not named as there was no league champion due to uncompleted league schedules.

Other selections to the all-league squad were: Mavis, Bishop Flaget; Carroll, Southeastern; Uhrig, Unioto; Anderson, Paint Valley; Bruce, Bishop Flaget; Roll, Adena; Estep, Southeastern; Hill, Adena; Steve Dawes, Bishop Flaget; Alley, Piketon; Zickafoose, Paint Valley.

Jefferson Wins Track Competition

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The mercurial feet of Dayton Jefferson's track stars have backed up Vince Taylor's mouth.

"I've been telling people a long time we had the best Class AA track program in Ohio. I think this proves it. It feels great to set state history," said Taylor, who coaches the Jefferson girls with Dennis Robinson.

Taylor coached the school's boys to the state championship the week before he and Robinson guided the girls to similar honors Saturday, the first school to win both Ohio track titles in the same year.

Records Fall In Girls State Meet

GOOD EFFORT — Circleville's brilliant little red-headed sophomore Juli Schneider rounds the turn in the finals of the State 440 Saturday at OSU. Despite the fact that she was running with a tender foot she turned in a fine race and stayed with the pack.

Perri Martin of Teays Valley placed third in the 880-yard run, while Circleville's Natalie Martin finished sixth in the 440-yard dash and Juli Schneider failed to make the top six in the 440 Saturday in the Girls State Track

Tom Weiskopf Wins Kemper Golf Clash

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Experience was the key to his victory in the Kemper Open Golf Tournament, Tom Weiskopf said. A regained putting touch brought him through the multiple-man scramble.

But wife Jeanne deserves a large part of the credit, too.

"I was really down after my disappointing, discouraging finish in the Memorial Tournament in my home town," Weiskopf said Sunday after a final-round 70 had broken a two-year victory drought.

"I just wanted to get away from tournament golf for a while. I hadn't won in two years. I was playing bad. It wasn't any fun. I was confused and angry. I didn't know what to do."

"I just wanted to get away for a while and not play and try to get things worked out."

Clem Named All-League

Westfall's Dave Clem gained an outfield position on the All-Scioto Valley Conference baseball team while teammates Rick Stillings and Randy Adams received honorable mention.

Dave had been named Westfall's most valuable player earlier. He led the Mustangs with a .390 batting average.

Zane Trace placed three players on the star-studded squad: Don Mallow, catcher, .395 batting average and the Pioneers most valuable player; Greg Ireton, first baseman, .357 average; Terry French, utility man, .372 average.

Brian Kerns, Eric Haynes and Larry Street of the Pioneers all were honorable mention.

Scott Dailey of Unioto was named the conference's most valuable player.

A coach of the year was not named as there was no league champion due to uncompleted league schedules.

Other selections to the all-league squad were: Mavis, Bishop Flaget; Carroll, Southeastern; Uhrig, Unioto; Anderson, Paint Valley; Bruce, Bishop Flaget; Roll, Adena; Estep, Southeastern; Hill, Adena; Steve Dawes, Bishop Flaget; Alley, Piketon; Zickafoose, Paint Valley.

Jefferson Wins Track Competition

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The mercurial feet of Dayton Jefferson's track stars have backed up Vince Taylor's mouth.

"I've been telling people a long time we had the best Class AA track program in Ohio. I think this proves it. It feels great to set state history," said Taylor, who coaches the Jefferson girls with Dennis Robinson.

Taylor coached the school's boys to the state championship the week before he and Robinson guided the girls to similar honors Saturday, the first school to win both Ohio track titles in the same year.

BUNCHED AT THE TAPE — Circleville's Natalie Martin (third from left) drives for the tape in the finish of the State 440-yard run Saturday and gets sixth place. It was a blistering pace as Natalie ran the race in 59.8 which wins some meets.

Finals at Ohio State Stadium.

All three local girls gave a good account of themselves but the runners were blazing and records were falling like leaves on a windy day in October.

Twenty-nine state records were broken during the meet and three tied as the girls set a torrid pace on a beautiful day before a nice crowd.

Perri Martin ran a great race with a time of 2:19.5 to break the record 2:21.6 and finish third which shows the pace of the events.

Darcy Tomlinson of Sherwood Fairview won the event with a record breaking time of 2:18.2. She also broke the mile record with a time of 5:07.8.

the old mark was 5:23.1.

Natalie Martin turned in a time of 59.8, good enough to win some meets, and ended up in sixth place in a close bunch at the wire.

Juli Schneider was running with a tender foot but gave it all she had. The little red-head went all out and finished the race in fine style but just couldn't break into the top six as Karen Bradley set a blistering winning time of 58.9.

All three girls did a good job. Perri has graduated but Natalie, a junior, and Juli, a sophomore, are sure bets to be back in the huge arena next year.

Toledo Rogers won the Class AAA team title, Dayton Jefferson copped the AA and Minster took the A honors.

ALMOST HOME — Perri Martin of Teays Valley nears the finish line in the State 880-yard run Saturday at OSU. Perri broke the record with a time of 2:19.5 but finished third in the event. It was a record breaking day with 29 new marks in the book.

Trail Blazers Win NBA Championship

PORTLAND (AP) — The Pacific Northwest is known for rain and clean air. Now, it's also known for the best basketball played anywhere.

The Portland Trail Blazers, who until this year had never had a winning season, claimed the National Basketball Association title Sunday with a hair-raising 109-107 victory over the Philadelphia 76ers.

"We had a whole lot of fun," grinned Blazer team captain Bill Walton, who was named the series' Most Valuable Player after he scored 20 points, grabbed 23 rebounds and blocked eight shots in the victory. "I feel good all over."

When the buzzer sounded, Walton, who suffered through two injury-plagued seasons and considerable criticism before leading his team to this championship, ripped the No. 32 jersey from his back and hurled it into the crowd.

The Blazers had dropped the first two games of the best-of-seven championship series, then won four in a row to win the title. Sunday's contest was the only game that was close.

Portland led by as many as 15 points, but the Sixers repeatedly challenged the Blazers. They nearly caught them at the finish.

Joe Bryant's two free throws with 51 seconds left sliced the Portland lead to 108-106. Portland's Maurice Lucas sank one of two free throws with 27 seconds to make it a four-point game.

George McGinnis, whose shooting touch returned for the final game, sank a 20-footer to slice the lead to 109-107 with 18 seconds to go. Then McGinnis tied up Portland's Bob Gross and controlled the subsequent jump ball.

The Sixers got three shots in the final eight seconds, but none found its target. The first was by Julius Erving, who led all scorers with 40 points, but his 18-footer bounced off the rim. Lloyd Free grabbed the rebound, but his shot was blocked by Walton.

McGinnis grabbed the ball and fired from 12 feet, but the shot was short. Walton tipped the rebound to Portland's Johnny Davis and the game was over.

The crowd of 12,951 swamped the court in what looked like a scene from a Cecil B. DeMille epic, and the immediate post-game hysteria was tame compared with the celebration that followed downtown. A parade through downtown was planned for noon today.

"The sun was shining in Portland. I thought that was a good omen," said exhausted Philadelphia Coach Gene Shue. "It was a tough game."

The tenseness of the game evaporated in the euphoria of the post-game Portland dressing room, where guard Dave Twardzik jokingly dumped beer down the shorts of Walton and Lionel Hollins as they were being interviewed on television.

Champagne flowed freely and so did compliments.

"I'm a very good friend of everybody on this team," Gross said. "I can say anything I want to any of them. You can't say that about very many teams."

"They play team ball, unselfish ball. They are the embodiment of the best in professional basketball," said champagne-drenched team owner Larry Weinberg.

"These guys have played great all season," said the usually reserved Walton. The big Portland center normally avoids post-game interviews, but he talked at length after the game.

"In my opinion," he said, "they (the Sixers) lost because they played a better team. I don't mean to take anything away from them. They're a fine team. I just think they ran into a better one."

"This was one of the best games I've ever played in," Walton said. "A lot of guys played well and it was exciting."

Walton won a new car from Sport Magazine when a panel of writers selected him MVP. Blazer Coach Jack Ramsay couldn't argue with the choice.

"I've never coached a better player. I've never coached a better competitor. I've never coached a better person than Bill Walton," said

Ramsay.

While Erving grabbed his usual place in the spotlight by sinking 17 of 29 field goal tries from a variety of angles, Gross — the man who was guarding him — hit 12 of 16 field goal attempts and grabbed five timely offensive rebounds.

Gross wound up with 24 points, tops for the Blazers, and he said after the game that Erving relaxed on defense and became tired because he played nearly the entire game.

"I really don't think he was concentrating on me on defense," Gross said, "and there's no way he can run up and down the court with me for 48 minutes and not get tired."

In the final game, it was the play of Portland's guards—particularly Hollins—and the team's rugged superiority on the backboards that made the difference.

Hollins scored 20 points, including several key baskets in the final quarter. Portland out-rebounded the Sixers, 59-47.

Still, Philadelphia needed just one basket at the end to send the game into overtime.

"We almost did it," said McGinnis, who hit 12 of 23 field goal attempts, scored 28 points and grabbed 16 rebounds. "We fought back. It was a great ball game, a great finish, the best game of the series."

But, he added, "We would have liked to see the guards get more involved."

Philadelphia guard Doug Collins, the team's second-leading scorer through the playoffs, hit just 3-of-9 from the field for six points. Lloyd Free, who came off the bench to replace Collins, was 0-for-6 from the field.

When NBA Commissioner Lawrence O'Brien presented the championship trophy, Ramsay had the entire Portland team come into the interview room to accept it.

"This is the finest team I've ever coached," Ramsay said. "They are the finest people I've ever coached. If we hadn't won it, I'd have felt the same way."

Bench, Reds Blast Astros, 14-4

CINCINNATI (AP) — Forget Johnny Bench's .227 batting average. He's hitting a ton.

"Hitting .300 has never been a goal of mine. I'd much rather hit .234 with men on base, than .280 without anybody on base," the Cincinnati slugger said Sunday after driving in five runs in a 14-4 rout of the Houston Astros.

The oft-injured Reds catcher announced Sunday he is mounting a chase after Ron Cey of Los Angeles, the major leagues' runaway leader in runs batted in.

"There is no reason I can't make a run at him. I think I can catch him," said Bench, who hit his 10th and 11th home runs of the season.

The three-time National League RBI king is back in the swing of things after "a terrible start" and an off-year in 1976.

The 29-year-old slugger has overtaken teammate George Foster for the club RBI lead with 37, half of his entire output a year ago when he slumped to a career-low .238 batting average.

Cey, the Dodgers' power-hitting third baseman, has 51 RBI in 51 games—a healthy lead over Bench.

But, pointed out Bench, "he's cooled down, as have the Dodgers." Los Angeles holds a 10-game lead over the Reds who have won seven of their last nine games.

Cincinnati opens a three-game road trip against the rejuvenated New York Mets tonight. Pat Zachry, 3-6, is scheduled to face Tom Seaver, 5-3.

Bench has found himself despite a demotion from the cleanup spot.

"It's easier to bat lower in the lineup. In the fourth position, you are under the gun, offensively and defensively. When you are not hitting, you worry about the right pitches to call. Sometimes it's been a distraction to me," said the nine-time All-Star who is nearing the 1,000 RBI plateau. He has 966 in 11-plus seasons.

Bench and Joe Morgan supplied eight runs in the outburst, staking unbeaten Gary Nolan, 4-0, to an 11-0 lead after five innings. Morgan's three-run blast highlight a five-run first inning.

Victim of the barrage was J.R. Richard, a 20-game winner last year. Now 4-5, he is 3-7 lifetime against the Reds.

Willie Crawford drove in all four runs for the Astros, drilling a run-scoring single to snap Nolan's shutout bid and later tagged Pedro Borbon for a three-run homer.

The Astros hold a 5-2 edge over the Reds and Crawford feels the club has yet to reach its full potential.

"We haven't got on the track yet. Wait until Cesar Cedeño is back and starts rolling," said Crawford, who has been hampered all spring by injuries.

Campbell, Bosox Stop Twins, 5-1

By BARRY WILNER
AP Sports Writer

If Bill Campbell wanted to prove that you can go home again, he did it in style Sunday.

Campbell, Boston's ace reliever who signed with the Red Sox for $1 million as a free agent after leaving the Minnesota Twins last winter, made his first appearance against his former teammates in a Boston's 5-1 triumph Sunday. Campbell did not spare the dramatics in his return engagement either, entering the game with the bases loaded and none out in the Twins' sixth.

Campbell got out of the jam after allowing just one run, which Rod Carew drove in with a sacrifice fly on a 3-0 pitch. Over-all, he pitched four innings of two-hit relief in recording his ninth save of the season.

Campbell's heroics gave Reggie Cleveland his fourth victory in seven decisions. George Scott drove in the Red Sox' first run with a single in the sixth. It was his 1,700th career hit.

Elsewhere in the American League, the Kansas City edged Jim Palmer and Baltimore 4-3, Seattle beat Cleveland 6-1, the New York Yankees slugged six home runs in defeating Chicago 8-6, Toronto's Jerry Garvin earned his seventh victory of the season in besting Vida Blue and Oakland 7-3, Texas nipped Milwaukee 7-6 and California took Detroit 5-1.

Royals 4, Orioles 3
Designated hitter Pete LaCock's two-run homer in the fourth inning gave Kansas City its victory over Baltimore. For the second straight time, Palmer, 7-5, was unable to become the winningest pitcher in Orioles' history. He is tied at 181 victories with Dave McNally. Palmer blamed himself for the loss.

Mariners 6, Indians 1
Ruppert Jones' 10th home run of the season and John Montague's first complete game of his major league career highlighted Seattle's triumph. The victory snapped a four-game Mariners' losing streak and made Montague, 5-3, the club's first five-game winner.

Yankees 8, White Sox 6
The Yankees' long ball onslaught started with Thurman Munson's solo blast in the opening inning, his ninth homer of the year. Carlos May and Reggie Jackson hit two-run home runs and Graig Nettles, Bucky Dent and George Zeber added solo shots.

Zeber's homer was his first in the major leagues.

Dick Tidrow, 5-2, gained the victory for New York and Sparky Lyle pitched three innings in registering his 11th save. Steve Stone, 6-4, had a five-game winning streak snapped.

Blue Jays 7, A's 3
Toronto rookie Garvin, 7-3, bested Blue, 3-7, with four innings of sparkling shutout relief from Jerry Johnson. Otto Velez slammed two home runs and Doug Ault hit a three-run shot in support of Garvin.

Rangers 7, Brewers 6
Tom Grieve's homer and two RBI and the one-hit relief pitching of Adrian Devine helped the Rangers beat Milwaukee. The Brewers got home runs from Cecil Cooper, Sal Bando and Charlie Moore.

Angels 5, Tigers 1
Frank Tanana became the major league's first nine-game winner with a strong eight-hitter as California moved into a virtual tie for third place with Texas in the AL West. The victory also moved the Angels one game over .500.

Guillermo Vilas Tennis Winner

PARIS (AP) — For tennis stars, it's "au revoir" to the clay courts of Paris and on to the green, green grass of England. Wimbledon is two weeks away.

Guillermo Vilas, Argentinian superstar who tore Brian Gottfried to pieces in the final of the French Championships Sunday, immediately became a favorite to challenge Jimmy Connors, Bjorn Borg and Roscoe Tanner at Wimbledon.

"I really don't know," Vilas said. "I have not begun to think of Wimbledon. We must wait and see."

"We have said all along that 1978 is to be my year."

Carner Wins LPGA Tilt

NEW ROCHELLE, N.Y. (AP) — The tougher the golf course, the better JoAnne Carner likes it.

"My chances of winning are better on a course that challenges me," Mrs. Carner said Sunday after winning the $100,000 Ladies Professional Golf Association tournament over the demanding Wykagyl Country Club layout.

It was the first tour victory for the 38-year-old veteran, a top amateur nearly two decades ago as JoAnne Gunderson, since she won her second U.S. Women's Open last July — and it proved again that the long-hitting prod from Lake Worth, Fla., is at her best on a difficult course.

Wykagyl measured only 6,169 yards for the 72-hole tournament, but Mrs. Carner was the only player in the field able to break par. She had rounds of 72-70-68-74 for a total of 284, four shots under par. The performance earned her the winner's share of $15,000 and boosted her 1977 earnings to $62,134, second only to Kathy Whitworth's $66,032. Miss Whitworth failed to make the cut in this tourney.

Mrs. Carner finished five shots ahead of Kathy McMullen, who earned $9,750 for second place, and six shots ahead of Sandra Post and Jane Blalock, who earned $6,065 each for their third-place deadlock.

Campbell got out of the jam after allowing just one run, which Rod Carew drove in with a sacrifice fly on a 3-0 pitch. Over-all, he pitched four innings of two-hit relief in recording his ninth save of the season.

Campbell's heroics gave Reggie Cleveland his fourth victory in seven decisions. George Scott drove in the Red Sox' first run with a single in the sixth. It was his 1,700th career hit.

Elsewhere in the American League, the Kansas City edged Jim Palmer and Baltimore 4-3, Seattle beat Cleveland 6-1, the New York Yankees slugged six home runs in defeating Chicago 8-6, Toronto's Jerry Garvin earned his seventh victory of the season in besting Vida Blue and Oakland 7-3, Texas nipped Milwaukee 7-6 and California took Detroit 5-1.

Royals 4, Orioles 3
Designated hitter Pete LaCock's two-run homer in the fourth inning gave Kansas City its victory over Baltimore. For the second straight time, Palmer, 7-5, was unable to become the winningest pitcher in Orioles' history. He is tied at 181 victories with Dave McNally. Palmer blamed himself for the loss.

Mariners 6, Indians 1
Ruppert Jones' 10th home run of the season and John Montague's first complete game of his major league career highlighted Seattle's triumph. The victory snapped a four-game Mariners' losing streak and made Montague, 5-3, the club's first five-game winner.

Yankees 8, White Sox 6
The Yankees' long ball onslaught started with Thurman Munson's solo blast in the opening inning, his ninth homer of the year. Carlos May and Reggie Jackson hit two-run home runs and Graig Nettles, Bucky Dent and George Zeber added solo shots.

Zeber's homer was his first in the major leagues.

Dick Tidrow, 5-2, gained the victory for New York and Sparky Lyle pitched three innings in registering his 11th save. Steve Stone, 6-4, had a five-game winning streak snapped.

Blue Jays 7, A's 3
Toronto rookie Garvin, 7-3, bested Blue, 3-7, with four innings of sparkling shutout relief from Jerry Johnson. Otto Velez slammed two home runs and Doug Ault hit a three-run shot in support of Garvin.

Rangers 7, Brewers 6
Tom Grieve's homer and two RBI and the one-hit relief pitching of Adrian Devine helped the Rangers beat Milwaukee. The Brewers got home runs from Cecil Cooper, Sal Bando and Charlie Moore.

Angels 5, Tigers 1
Frank Tanana became the major league's first nine-game winner with a strong eight-hitter as California moved into a virtual tie for third place with Texas in the AL West. The victory also moved the Angels one game over .500.

Energy Plan Fact Stands Out: It'll Be Costly

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress and the country are wading toward decisions on energy policy through waves of projections and statistics, some conflicting, most confusing, none conclusive.

It turns out that there are numbers to support almost any position on the issue. All it takes to play is a pocket calculator and any of the batch of reports that have rolled off presses and mimeograph machines all spring.

President Carter warns of an impending national catastrophe unless the government acts. Republicans contend the government is the catastrophe, and argue that the cure is in the market place.

So the consumer can take his choice. Either way, he is going to pay his money, since there is solid agreement on one fact: the price of fuel is going to keep going up, sharply.

Now the Congressional Budget Office has weighed in with a 140-page analysis of Carter's energy program, seeking to help focus the debate.

For openers, it points out that there are more than 100 interdependent proposals in the energy plan Carter has sent to Congress. If nothing else, that dramatizes the complexity of the problem and of the proposed solution.

The congressional analysts say the major reason for mounting imports are the controls that have kept U.S. oil and gas prices "artificially below world levels."

"Over the past four years, this regulatory system has served to cushion Americans from the dramatic shifts in consumption, and in turn in life-styles" the budget office report says. "Artificially low prices also have tended to encourage energy consumption and discourage the search for and production of new domestic resources."

Carter's solution is a system of taxes and rebates, together with an easing of controls on the price of newly produced oil, so as to increase gradually U.S. prices to the levels of the world market place.

While his answers are different, Republican Melvin R. Laird, the former congressman and secretary of defense, sounds a similar complaint about government price regulations.

Laird, in a report sponsored by the American Enterprise Institute for Public Policy Research, contends that the United States "leads the world in self-deception" because of fuel price controls and the lowest energy tax rates in the industrialized world.

He argues that the crisis is not in energy but in policy, and that the more the government has done, the worse the problem has become.

Laird said an unregulated market place could correct the situation, with a windfall profits tax to prevent an industry bonanza, and with its revenues to be used to ease the impact of higher prices on low-income citizens.

The congressional study sticks to analysis without recommendations, but it does suggest that the administration proposals will not reach the conservation goals Carter set.

Its analysts estimate oil import savings at about 3.6 million barrels a day, well short of the 4.5 million barrels that is the administration's target.

Among the other figures and projections produced by the congressional analysts:

—Carter's proposed standby gasoline tax, a nickel a gallon to take effect if consumption exceeds government targets, probably would not be triggered until 1982 — if Congress approves the system. That is a big if, for the gas tax faces stiff opposition and is rated one of the Carter measures least likely to succeed.

—Under the Carter plan, the budget office estimates that fuel prices will go up by approximately 74 per cent over the four years ending in 1980. But in any event, inflation and developments in the market place are expected to raise fuel prices by 49.5 per cent during the same period.

—Even with the Carter program, the average American family probably will do more driving in 1985 than it does now. The current average is 15,000 miles a year, and it probably will go up to 17,000 miles, with higher gas prices offset by improved automobile mileage.

While the numbers are complicated, the political problem is not. The congressional analysts say that the benefits of a new energy program will not be evident for a decade, and then they will be national, not individual, benefits.

"The costs, however, are likely to be experienced first, more directly, and by more people."

Flood-Ravaged Town Showing New Face

REXBURG, Idaho (AP) — It's tough repaying someone who helped save your life, but the city of Rexburg, which was in the path of the deadly and destructive Teton Dam burst one year ago, is trying its hardest.

Men and women, mostly from Utah and Idaho, who helped this eastern Idaho city's flood victims dig out of the muddy aftermath, now can see fresh paint and smiling faces.

Within hours of the June 5, 1976, catastrophe, when 80 billion gallons of water poured through the earthen dam and inundated much of the Snake River Valley, thousands of volunteers came by busloads to help shovel mud out of basements and living rooms.

Today, the volunteers were to tour the flood area and view new homes — some still with high water marks but many freshly-painted. Farmlands have been restored and the business community is thriving.

The celebration was moved ahead by one day out of respect to the many Mormons who will spend much of Sunday in church.

On schedule was a box lunch social in the town park, which was clogged in a year ago with uprooted trees, bloated animal carcasses and wrecked cars.

Nearly $200 million in federal reimbursements has gone to Rexburg's victims, and now the city shows few signs of the flood that claimed 11 lives and put hundreds of families in temporary housing. The Bureau of Reclamation, which built the dam, says it will pay an additional $100 million to $200 million before all claims are settled.

Assessor's Office. Many have since been replaced by dwellings valued at $60,000 and up.

The government paid flood victims according to home replacement value, not their assessed value.

Local Teens Injured In Accident

Two Circleville teens were injured when their car crashed into a field off Route 188 near Dunkle Road 7:03 p.m. Sunday.

Paul K. Johnson, 17, 585 Woodland Dr., and Eric M. Berlin, 17, 1150 Cambridge Place, were treated at Berger Hospital for contusions and abrasions.

They were released following treatment, according to Pickaway County Deputy Sheriff Don Hamilton, who investigated the crash.

Deputy Hamilton said Johnson was driving south on Route 188 and was in the process of passing a slower car near Dunkle Road when he saw an approaching car in the northbound lane.

He applied the brakes on his car and attempted to drive back to the right lane, but the vehicle went off the right side for 194 feet before crashing into a support pole for a South Central Ohio Power Company

War Dead Honored From Nation's Past

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — More than a century after the Civil War divided them, Northerners and Southerners joined in the largest Confederate cemetery north of the Mason-Dixon line to honor the 2,260 soldiers buried there.

"We did bind up the nation's wounds," Columbus attorney Earl Morris told about 150 persons who attended a Confederate Memorial Day service at Camp Chase Confederate Cemetery.

"It may well be that it took another war to bring full national unity," Morris said. "But when the descendants of these men who lie here and of their captors—their grandsons and grandnephews from Minnesota and Mississippi, from Vermont and Virginia—died together at Pearl Harbor, in the mountains of Italy, in the Battle of the Bulge and in Iwo Jima, we were, indeed, one nation."

The Southerners' graves are contained in a two-acre plot in west Columbus. The site is all that remains of the old Camp Chase Military Prison, which was the North's largest prisoner-of-war camp.

Salutes honoring the Rebel soldiers were fired by descendants of the 22nd Virginia and 1st Ohio calvaries dressed in gray and blue.

"We pause today as was first done 80 years ago on June 5, 1896, for a service in their memory," Morris said.

"But we do more than that. We rejoice even as we memorialize that a nation divided when they died is now one, strengthened over the years and today the greatest nation on earth."

Confederate Memorial Day is observed on various days in April and May in some southern states and on June 3, Jefferson Davis' birthday, in others. Here it is observed on the Sunday nearest June 3.

The annual service at Camp Chase is sponsored by the United Daughters of the Confederacy chapter in Columbus.

Although not everyone had roots in the South—even Morris said his ancestors wore Yankee blue uniforms—they all sang "Dixie."

Morris, a former president of the Ohio Bar Association, said Camp Chase Military Prison has become "one of the way stations" in the building of America.

13-Ton Rock Ends School Vandalism

BLOOMFIELD, Conn. (AP) — A 13-ton rock may have solved Bloomfield High School's graffiti problems, school officials say.

The rock, which cost $200, was installed in front of the school in an attempt to divert unsolicited student artwork from corridor walls.

Principal Louis Schiavone says the rock has worked better than his wildest expectations.

"There's not a mark on the building, not even a chalk mark," he said. Another official added that vandalism had been cut 90 per cent.

Students cover the rock with their writings but create more space by painting over them. So far the rock has been painted maroon and silver.

Ecevit Seen Vote Victor In Turkey

ANKARA, Turkey (AP) — Official returns from Turkey's general election gave former Premier Bulent Ecevit's center-left Republican People's party a slim lead today over Premier Suleyman Demirel's conservative Justice party.

Ecevit, whose victorious invasion of Cyprus made him a national hero in 1974, said vote tallies by his party workers were far ahead of the official count. He predicted the Republicans would take 222 of the 450 seats in the National Assembly, only four short of a majority.

"We will come to power and we will rule alone," Ecevit told cheering supporters at a dawn rally.

He predicted that the Justice party would get 173 seats.

The official tabulation of about 75 per cent of the votes cast Sunday gave the Republicans 4,611,606 votes, or 40.4 per cent; the Justice party 4,109,860, or 36 per cent; the ultra-conservative Moslem National Salvation party, 883,246, 7.7 per cent, and the neo-fascist National Action Party, 660,693, 5.8 per cent. Three other parties and independents got 731,872.

Seats in the assembly are allotted on a basis of proportional representation. In the last assembly, the Republicans had 188 seats, the Justice party had 171, the National Salvation party had 40 and the rest were divided among five parties and nine independents.

"But we do more than that. We rejoice even as we memorialize that a nation divided when they died is now one, strengthened over the years and today the greatest nation on earth."

Town Meets Get Some Good Results

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The resurgence of town meetings during the past two years has produced some positive results, participants in the local assemblies agreed Saturday.

Nearly 200 persons representing 72 town meetings held around Ohio met here to compare results.

"Town meetings give the common man a vehicle to get his voice heard," said Andrew Batchelor, vice president of Anchor-Hocking Corp. in Lancaster.

Batchelor said a Lancaster Town Meeting had given impetus to an 11-year effort to build a public library, and "for the first time, brought together Fairfield County's 11 mayors, who now know each other and discuss common problems."

Another result, Batchelor said, was Ohio University's Lancaster branch becoming more of a cultural center for the city and county by holding lectures, plays and concerts for the community.

Mayor Steve Smith of London said a Town Meeting there had sparked action toward establishing a large recreation center in the city for all of Madison County.

Smith said action is also under way for beautifying and revitalizing downtown London, and making a survey to determine community wants and interests.

Robert Booher of the Institute of Cultural Affairs in Cincinnati said the success of the town meetings is an indication that "people have decided to leave the cynicism of the 70s behind and to pick up responsibility for their communities."

Growing out of the old-time town meetings recreated during last year's American Revolution Bicentennial observances, more than 1,000 town meetings have been held in the nation.

Booher explained that town meetings consist of 100 to 400 persons gathered for a one-day workshop to discuss current issues and problems and their causes, and to propose solutions.

Annual Outbreak At Athens Quelled

ATHENS, Ohio (AP) — Seven persons were arrested and two were injured slightly during a weekend disturbance that local law enforcement officials call an "annual event" in this college community.

The disturbance began early Saturday and involved an estimated 250 persons, mostly students from Ohio University. Beginning about 1 a.m., it broke up about an hour later with no damage reported and no arrests made.

Then, Saturday night, the disturbance resumed when a crowd of about 1,000 persons refused to leave the main street when the bars closed.

Police shot wooden plugs called knee knockers from tear gas guns to disperse the crowd and move the students back into their dorms at Ohio University.

Police Sgt. Howard Frost said seven persons were arrested — six on misdemeanor charges of disorderly conduct, and a seventh for inciting to riot, a felony. All were released on their own recognizance.

Two persons were treated at a local hospital for minor cuts.

About 60 law enforcement officers from the Athens City police department, the Athens County and Washington County sheriffs' departments and the campus security force were called to the scene.

Athens policeman Richard Mayer said a crowd began to gather in the downtown area at about 10 p.m.

"Most of the students were just standing around watching to see what would happen," Mayer said. "At about 12:40 a.m. they took over the street. There were a few that seemed to be instigating it."

"They began heckling the police officers. As the bars started to close the group started to grow."

Mayer said that traffic was able to continue on the streets until about 2:30 a.m. Then the crowd took over the street completely and bottles began to be thrown.

"We pulled back," Mayer said. "But when we heard that windows were being broken we came back in riot gear and the chief ordered us to form a line, read the riot act, and give them 10 minutes to disperse."

By 5 a.m. the incident was over, Mayer said.

"It's an annual thing," sheriff's

Coke Teamsters

Seeking Contract

AKRON (AP) — Teamsters Union members who work for Coca-Cola Bottling Co. in Akron are continuing to work without a contract on a day-to-day basis while they attempt to negotiate with company officials.

A spokesman said members of Local 24 turned down a contract offer Saturday by a vote of 78-2 because they were dissatisfied with the company's cost-of-living offer.

The spokesman said the union hopes to continue the contract negotiations this week.

Deputy Scot Ridinger said. "It's the end of the spring quarter."

Officials said that similar disturbances have occurred in three of the last four years at this time of year.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

What kind of day will tomorrow be? To find out what the stars say, read the forecast given for your birth Sign.

FOR TUESDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): A few delays likely. Also, your powers of authority may be challenged. Here is where your quick thinking, acumen and general good judgment will be needed.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): A new approach may be needed in some areas in order to cope with unusual situations but day, on the whole, stimulates incentive, can bring advancement.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): Mercury influences excellent! If any of your plans have been stymied recently, THIS is the time to try again. Imagination and originality stimulated.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): Be circumspect in writings, careful in signing papers, handling the affairs of others. Accuracy essential!

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): You may find some real values in seemingly unimportant offerings. Don't dismiss lightly. Neither make changes in matters now running smoothly.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): Care needed in travel, production, educational matters. There's a tendency toward carelessness which could lead to needless errors.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): Do not become frustrated over possible delays or disappointments. With your innate intelligence and ingenuity, you can change undesirable situations.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22): Fine planetary influences. With initiative and enterprise, more than usual can be achieved. Day will definitely respond to spunk, pulling power.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): It's not like you to throw your weight around, demand and command or give ultimatums, but such tendencies prevail now. So... watch your tactics. There's no use in alienating others.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Stars warn against vacillating, changing plans or projects before they have been given a fair chance. Be steadfast. Nothing has changed since activities were initiated.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): A day for listening well and voicing honest opinions. Take stock of why certain maneuvers and tactics did not succeed in the past and avoid them now.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): A day in which to get away from routine. New scenes, new places, new people could spark a brand new interest in your life, make it more stimulating.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with a brilliant intellect, an insatiable love of knowledge and a warm, outgoing personality. Like most Gemini's, however, you tend to scatter energies, thus often defeating your own purposes. Your goals are usually lofty ones, but you MUST acquire the stick-to-it-iveness required to attain them. You work better alone than with others and your happiest occupation would be one which permits your lively imagination to stretch its wings. You are gifted along many lines, but could especially succeed at writing, art, the theater, music, science, the law or education - depending, of course, on your learnings and education.

Founding Father

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) - The first known Father's Day "card" was written in Babylon about 2000 B.C., in the form of a clay tablet which asked the gods to grant good health and long life to the father of the individual named Elmesu, reports Hallmark historian Sally Hopkins. Later, the ancient Romans, though not known particularly for their sentiment, celebrated Feb. 13-22 as the Feast of Parentalia, honoring departed fathers and mothers.

This year some 75 million Father's Day cards will be mailed, says Ms. Hopkins, many of them carrying sentiments similar to those of Elmesu - whose name was honored on such a card.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

What kind of day will tomorrow be? To find out what the stars say, read the forecast given for your birth Sign.

FOR TUESDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): A few delays likely. Also, your powers of authority may be challenged. Here is where your quick thinking, acumen and general good judgment will be needed.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): A new approach may be needed in some areas in order to cope with unusual situations but day, on the whole, stimulates incentive, can bring advancement.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): Mercury influences excellent! If any of your plans have been stymied recently, THIS is the time to try again. Imagination and originality stimulated.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): Be circumspect in writings, careful in signing papers, handling the affairs of others. Accuracy essential!

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): You may find some real values in seemingly unimportant offerings. Don't dismiss lightly. Neither make changes in matters now running smoothly.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): Care needed in travel, production, educational matters. There's a tendency toward carelessness which could lead to needless errors.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): Do not become frustrated over possible delays or disappointments. With your innate intelligence and ingenuity, you can change undesirable situations.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 23): Fine planetary influences. With initiative and enterprise, more than usual can be achieved. Day will definitely respond to spunk, pulling power.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): It's not like you to throw your weight around, demand and command or give ultimatums, but such tendencies prevail now. So watch your tactics. There's no use in alienating others.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Stars warn against vacillating, changing plans or projects before they have been given a fair chance. Be steadfast. Nothing has changed since activities were initiated.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): A day for listening well and voicing honest opinions. Take stock of why certain maneuvers and tactics did not succeed in the past and avoid them now.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): A day in which to get away from routine. New scenes, new places, new people could spark a brand new interest in your life, make it more stimulating.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with a brilliant intellect, an insatiable love of knowledge and a warm, outgoing personality. Like most Gemini's, however, you tend to scatter energies, thus often defeating your own purposes. Your goals are usually lofty ones, but you MUST acquire the stick-to-it-iveness required to attain them. You work better alone than with others and your happiest occupation would be one which permits your lively imagination to stretch its wings. You are gifted along many lines, but could especially succeed at writing, art, the theater, music, science, the law or education — depending, of course, on your learnings and education.

Founding Father

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — The first known Father's Day "card" was written in Babylon about 2000 B.C., in the form of a clay tablet which asked the gods to grant good health and long life to the father of the individual named Elmesu, reports Hallmark historian Sally Hopkins. Later, the ancient Romans, though not known particularly for their sentiment, celebrated Feb. 13-22 as the Feast of Parentalia, honoring departed fathers and mothers.

This year some 75 million Father's Day cards will be mailed, says Ms. Hopkins, many of them carrying sentiments similar to those of Elmesu — whose name was honored on such a card.

Haldeman, Mitchell Get Word Today On Sentence Start

WASHINGTON (AP) — Their legal avenues all but closed, H.R. Haldeman and John Mitchell are returning to the courtroom of federal Judge John Sirica one final time before going to prison for their Watergate crimes.

The judge planned to tell them today when they must begin serving the 2½- to 8-year prison sentences he imposed Feb. 21, 1975, for their roles in America's biggest political scandal, the Watergate coverup.

Sirica already has told their lawyers that he intends to give Mitchell and Haldeman until June 22 to get their affairs in order. But rules require that the two men be told the date in court.

Moluccans Release 2 Hostages

GRONINGEN, The Netherlands (AP) — Two pregnant women released by South Moluccan terrorists after 13 days captivity said today that the other 53 hostages aboard a train in northern Holland are in good condition despite "very great psychological pressure."

"In general, the hostages are being treated correctly by the Moluccans," said Annje Brouwer-Korf, 31, in a statement read to reporters before she and 25-year-old Nelleke Ellenbroek-Prinsen left the Groningen University Clinic with their husbands.

Mrs. Ellenbroek, who is five months pregnant, and Mrs. Brouwer, who is two months pregnant, were freed Sunday. But Justice Minister Andreas van Agt said there is no indication that release is near for the other hostages aboard the train near Assen or four others held in a schoolhouse.

Both women looked relaxed and rested after their night in the hospital, where Mrs. Brouwer is employed in the personnel department. They were released from the hospital after examinations by a physician and a psychiatrist.

Van Agt said a six-hour mediation meeting Saturday between the militants on the train and two leaders of the South Moluccan community made little progress, and a second meeting has not been fixed.

"I don't yet see any reason to be optimistic that it will all soon be over," he said as the twin sieges went into their third week.

Cyclists Avoid Serious Injuries

The Circleville Police Department investigated a motorcycle-car accident at 2:37 p.m. Saturday afternoon at the intersection of Northridge Road and N. Court St.

According to the report, David B. Happeny, 16, 155 E. High St., was northbound on N. Court St., and was approaching the intersection of Northridge Road when the light turned yellow.

Happenly told Ptl. Don Barton that he was too close to the intersection, to stop, so he started to proceed through the intersection.

As he did so, a car driven by Annabelle Skaggs, 225 Second St., made a left turn in the path of Happeny's motorcycle. Happeny lost control of the motorcycle when he attempted to avoid a collision. He and a passenger on the vehicle, Mary J. Morgan, 16, of 135 Marshall Road were thrown from the vehicle and suffered contusions and abrasions. They were taken to the Berger Hospital Emergency Room, where they were treated and released.

The Circleville Fire Department was called to the scene to wash gasoline and motor oil from the street.

Haldeman, Mitchell Get Word Today On Sentence Start

WASHINGTON (AP) — Their legal avenues all but closed, H.R. Haldeman and John Mitchell are returning to the courtroom of federal Judge John Sirica one final time before going to prison for their Watergate crimes.

The judge planned to tell them today when they must begin serving the 2½- to 8-year prison sentences he imposed Feb. 21, 1975, for their roles in America's biggest political scandal, the Watergate coverup.

Sirica already has told their lawyers that he intends to give Mitchell and Haldeman until June 22 to get their affairs in order. But rules require that the two men be told the date in court.

Next to former President Richard Nixon, who was pardoned for all crimes, they are the biggest fish in the Watergate net and the last to be punished. When the prison gates shut, the five-year anniversary of the Watergate break-in will just have passed and the Special Watergate Prosecution Force will be out of business or nearly so.

The imprisonment of Mitchell and Haldeman will mark the closing of the book on the scandal that caused the only resignation of a president of the United States.

The men have only slender hope of delaying or avoiding their sentences for conspiracy, obstruction of justice and multiple counts of lying under oath. They have asked the Supreme Court to reconsider its denial of their appeal, a plea rarely granted.

Haldeman, 50, and the 63-year-old Mitchell were the iron men of the flawed Nixon administration. None ranked higher.

The austere Haldeman, as chief of staff, exercised power second only to Nixon. He had worked in Nixon political campaigns since 1956 and has said, "I knew Richard Nixon the man and Richard Nixon the president more intimately than any other person. No one else was as totally trusted or as totally knowledgeable."

The dour Mitchell, as attorney general, carried out the law-and-order promises of the two Nixon presidential campaigns he directed. He had been the former president's law partner. He was eight months younger than the president, but acted as Nixon's counselor and political adviser.

Mitchell will be the first attorney general in America's history to be imprisoned.

They were convicted, along with former domestic counselor John Ehrlichman, of what the U.S. Court of Appeals called "a wide-ranging conspiracy designed to impede a grand jury investigation into the break-in at the Democratic National Committee headquarters in the Watergate office building in Washington, D.C., and into other related matters."

Ehrlichman, convicted also in the burglary of the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist, chose to go to prison while the Supreme Court considered his appeal along with those of Mitchell and Haldeman. He has already served eight months of his combined 2½-to 8-year term.
